High school could drop PLA status in 2015

STANFORD — Lincoln County High School is likely to shed its "persistently low-achieving" status as soon as KDE rules allow it to, at the end of the 2014-15 school year.

That's what members of the state education recovery team charged with helping turn around academic performance at the school say they think will happen.

"I would be very surprised if it didn't happen," said Lori Hollen, a recovery team member focused on math. "I think they're

Indictments served for drug trafficking

CRAB ORCHARD — The Lincoln County Sheriff's Office and Kentucky State Police served 17 indictments Tuesday on "numerous individuals" in the Crab Orchard and Broughtontown communities for drug-trafficking crimes.

The arrests were due to a year-long investigation, according to a news release from the sheriff's office issued late Tuesday afternoon. More than $5,000 and a vehicle were seized during the round-up, along with marijuana, oxycodone and hydrocodone.

The sheriff's office expected to serve eight more indictments in the case "within the next couple of days," according to the release.

CHILD ABUSE AWARENESS MONTH

Facing the issue

Sixth-grade art project puts focus on child abuse

Lloyd McGuffey sixth-graders undertook a unique art project in advance of April, which is Child Abuse Awareness Month.

Over the course of multiple classes with art teacher Allison Gibson, the students learned to draw their faces from photos, then replaced details of their faces with words about being kids and what child abuse means to them.

The students' artwork is now on display in multiple Lincoln County locations, including the Lincoln County Clerk's Office, seen at top, the Lincoln County Public Library, at bottom right, First Southern National Bank, Fort Logan Hospital and the Bluebird Cafe.

STANFORD — The number of authors per square mile inside Stanford will shoot through the roof Saturday, when 40 authors pay a visit to the Lincoln County Public Library for the first ever Lincoln Book Festival.

The festival will celebrate a wide variety of writing genres, including historical writing, Christian fiction, children's picture books, sports books, elementary-school math books and more, said Amanda Gearhart, the library's director.

"Last year, we tried a few author visits and the attendance was kind of light," Gearhart explained. "I thought, 'wouldn't it be great to have a lot of authors come at once?' … The response has been fantastic."

Participating authors include well-known gardener John Carloftis; and Joe Cox and Ryan Clark, the co-authors of "Fightin' Words: Kentucky vs. Louisville," a book that documents every game in that historic basketball rivalry between the University of Kentucky and the University of Louisville.

Gearhart said each author will be set up with a table during the event — which lasts from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday — where they will be selling their works, talking with fans and signing autographs.

Broughtontown center supports cancer battlers via foundation

By Nancy Leedy

BROUGHTONTOWN — Since its opening in 1996, the Broughtontown Community Center in the eastern part of Lincoln County has been a hub of activity, with ballgames, gospel singings, reunions, weddings and more taking place at the former elementary school.

But for many, the community center is much more than a place for fun activities.

When Eddy Hopkins of Crab Orchard was diagnosed with cancer several years ago, the center established the Eddy Hopkins Foundation in his honor. Hopkins chose not to use the money for himself since he had good insurance, but he allowed the center to use his name for the foundation, which help others in the community dealing with cancer.

The center has been using the foundation to help families get through difficult times ever since.

Stanford still debating next salary for mayor

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — Debate over setting the salary for the next mayor of Stanford continues to dominate city council meetings, but so far council members and Mayor Bill Miracle have been unable to find much common ground.

The issue reared its head again last Thursday, when Stanford resident Naren James — a doctor who regularly attends council meetings and has run for councilman and mayor in the past — asked each council member present to explicitly state their position on setting the salary.

"I think we need to keep it pretty close to where it is right now," said Councilman Mike Southerland, one of two council members who have voted against attempts to lower the salary from its current level of $30,000. "It may be a little overpriced … Around $25,000 is about as low as I'd like to see it go."

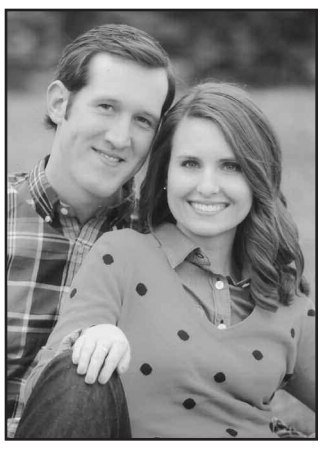

Councilman Scottie Ernst — the other member opposed to recent attempts to cut the salary — said he

PLA

on their way to becoming a distinguished school really soon — if not this year."

Lincoln County High School was designated as a persistently low-achieving (PLA) school in late 2011 because it did not meet federal "No Child Left Behind" goals for three years in a row and had test scores poorer than the majority of the state in 2011.

As a result of the classification, the high school's council was stripped of its power and given an "advisory" position by auditors who visited the school and district in 2012.

Principal Tim Godbey was allowed to remain in his position, but auditors ruled the district could not oversee the recovery efforts and gave that responsibility to the state instead.

The three-member education recovery team, which now consists of Hollen, Angela Riddell and team leader Sam Watkins, began working on a daily basis at the high school in the 2012-13 school year.

The recovery team was dispatched to the school for a three-year period — the same length of time KDE requires schools to retain the PLA designation before they can apply for removal.

Team members have explained their goal of working at the high school as "working ourselves out of a job." They aim to develop local teachers' and staff members' abilities so that the school will continue to improve after they leave.

Improvement was already underway at the school when the team first arrived in 2012, Watkins said last year, after about six months working in the school.

"I think the school had been primed so when we got here, the conditions were favorable for us to be very effective," he said at the time.

Now, as the end of the 2013-14 school year approaches, team members say the school has continued to progress in ways other schools are not.

"At the end of the day, your biggest competition should be yourself. You should always be competing against yourself to make yourself better and better."

- Education Recovery Team member Lori Hollen

"That's due in large part to the structures put in place in the school and the district," Hollen said. "That's awesome because that's really not happening everywhere."

Riddell, whose focus is on English and reading, said teachers are asking more questions and handling more things on their own. The recovery team is beginning to take a back seat.

"We facilitate more. The teachers are taking initiative and we provide support and resources to help them," Riddell said. "They've really created these systems themselves … to make their school more successful."

Godbey said in the 2012-13 school year, the recovery team's focus was largely on "curriculum alignment," which attempts to make sure students are learning what they will be tested on.

Now, that focus has shifted to "instructional practices," an area that Godbey said boils down to a simple question: "How do we take information and present it to students so it is engaging and motivating?"

Godbey and the recovery team members agree that no one area of improvement is ever "finished" — the school will always need to work on curriculum alignment and instructional practices, even if the main focus is on improvement elsewhere.

Hollen said it will be important for teachers and staff to remember that the ultimate goal isn't removal of the PLA tag; it's continuous improvement, no matter what.

"At the end of the day, your biggest competition should be yourself," she said. "You should always be competing against yourself to make yourself better and better."

Godbey said besides offering guidance and resources for improving how the high school operates, the recovery team members have also proven to be valuable assets who are willing to "get down in the trench with us and help with students."

For example, team members helped out with individual advisement sessions for the school's 1,100 students, Godbey said.

"They've been a big support for me professionally and a big support for our school," he said. "They've been willing to do whatever we needed them to do to be successful. It's been good having them."

Hollen and Riddell said they're most proud of the changes they've witnessed at the school because they can tell everyone understands the importance of providing students with a good education.

"Everyone is working so hard. It's really a cohesive team and they really care about kids," Riddell said. "I think you can really sense the community when you walk in."

away, all of the authors are Kentuckians and most are from Lincoln, nearby counties or the central Kentucky region, Gearhart said.

The library is partnering with three downtown Stanford businesses — the Bluebird Cafe, Kentucky Soaps and Such and Wilderness Road Guesthouses — for the event, said Jordan Smith, a spokeswoman for the businesses.

"The idea is to have people come in and enjoy the book fair and enjoy Stanford," Smith said. "We'd really like for people to make a nice morning (or) afternoon of the thing."

Smith said she was pleasantly surprised at the response the library got when it put out information about the festival and asked authors to attend.

"I thought we got a really eager response from a lot of people, which was encouraging," she said. "… I didn't know we had this many authors in central Kentucky, but we do. And a lot of them are putting out good quality writing, good quality books."

Smith said the event could be a good one for new or potential authors to attend in order to get some thoughts and advice on getting published or dealing with publishers from authors who have been there.

"Anyone who would want to come in and pick (the authors') brains about that process, I know all the authors that are coming would be more than happy to do that," she said.

The festival will feature a craft project for kids, as well as story times with authors of children's books, Gearhart said. Five different children's book authors will be reading for kids at 10 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 11 a.m., 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Gearhart and Smith said they're hopeful that the festival will become an annual event.

"I think this is a great way for us (the businesses) to partner with the them (the library)," Smith said. "Any way we can be a part of that and help them get people in here and get them interested in books and literature and reading, we're excited about that and happy to do it."

SO YOU KNOW

The Lincoln County Book Festival will be held at the Lincoln County Public Library and the surrounding area in downtown Stanford from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, April 12. Story time with authors are scheduled as follows: Amanda Haan, 10 a.m.; Mike Norris, 10:30 a.m.; Heather Henson, 11 a.m.; Debra Watts, 11:30 a.m.; and Ron Evans, 1 p.m.

Confirmed authors participating in the festival include Alison Atlee, Shan Ayers, Damian Beach, Hallee Bridgeman, Warren Brunner, Beth Dotson Brown, Forrest Calico, Kay Camenisch, Jon Carloftis, Lucille Carloftis, Evelyn Christensen, Ryan Clark, Angela Correll, Joe Cox, Byron Crawford, Steven Flairty, Thomas Freese, Ann H. School officials await results of education audit

MAKING THE GRADE

Ongoing coverage of Lincoln County High School's recovery efforts following its 2011 designation as a "persistently low-achieving" school

STANFORD — Lincoln County school officials are optimistic about a recent educational audit of Lincoln County High School and the school district.

The audit, which was conducted March 24-26, is an attempt to gauge how well the high school and district leadership are doing after the high school was classified as "persistently low-achieving" (PLA) in late 2011.

The Kentucky Department of Education dispatched a seven-member team to audit the school district and a two-member team to audit the high school.

The auditors are not determining whether to remove the PLA tag — that determination cannot come until at least the end of the next school year. Instead, auditors are looking at evidence of progress and providing an outside assessment of how well things are going, explained Karen Hatter, Lincoln superintendent.

High school Principal Tim Godbey said auditors reviewed a lot of data — including things such as school improvement plans, professional development meetings and lesson plans — online prior to the high school's audit visit.

"Our data has shown significant improvement, so we didn't have to have the full-fledged audit," Godbey said.

Auditors who visited the high school focused on specific deficiencies cited in a 2012 audit of the school, along with one other KDE standard, known as "Standard 3: teaching and assessing for learning," Godbey said.

The auditors observed every teacher and every classroom, and conducted interviews with Godbey, teachers, staff members, students and community members.

"I think it went great. We felt very prepared," Godbey said. "(The auditors) felt like they had everything they needed … they were able to get what they needed to make accurate decisions."

Prior to the auditors' visit, the high school had to rank itself from 1-4 on the same deficiencies and standard that the auditors would be assessing, Godbey said.

In the ranking scales used, 1 represents no improvement or "significant deficiencies," 2 represents some improvement or some deficiencies, 3 represents "satisfactory" performance and 4 represents "distinguished" or "exemplary" performance, Godbey explained.

On five of the six 2012 deficiencies for the high school, including ones such as "the principal does not ensure that classroom instructional practices meet the needs of all students," the high school rated itself as a 3 out of 4.

The high school rated itself as a 2 on "Deficiency 4," which states the principal and school council do not review school programs in order to make sure resources are used efficiently and effectively.

"(We only rated that a 2) because there's still some old ways of doing things here that we've not changed — we've not analyzed enough and made improvements," Godbey said. "That's because at the high-school level, there are so many programs … we do not have a real good way of analyzing all of them to determine if they are effective."

On KDE Standard 3, the school rated itself a 2.67.

"There were things where we felt like we had improved," Godbey said. "But we were still a ways from being proficient on that standard."

The auditors' report will lay out how the high school judged itself compared to how well auditors think the school is doing. And it will explain where the school can take action to improve, Godbey explained.

Godbey said he hopes when the auditors' report comes back — possibly by the middle or end of April — that the school can use the information in it as a "springboard" to take "new initiatives" in the next school year.

"We've been engrossed in this work for two years. Sometimes you can have blind spots," Godbey said of the school's efforts to bounce back from the PLA status. "I'm optimistic. I'm very optimistic about the findings, but I'll know something definite in three weeks."

District rates itself less than satisfactory

At the district level, auditors looked at five KDE standards, instead of just the one focused on at the high school.

For its self-assessment, the district rated itself between 2 and 3 on all five standards.

The district rated itself lowest — 2.17 — on Standard 2, "governance and leadership." It rated itself highest — 2.6 — on Standard 5, "using results for continuous improvement."

Hatter said the district didn't give itself a "satisfactory" 3 rating in any category because criteria for that rating use "all-inclusive" words such as "every employee" or "fully implemented" — levels of completion that officials didn't feel they had yet achieved.

But Hatter noted the self-assessment was done in advance of the audit and district officials continued to work at improvement between the self-assessment and the auditors' visit.

"Even since then, we've addressed areas and probably would rate ourselves higher," she said.

District auditors attended a two-hour presentation on district information given by Hatter, observed high-school classrooms along with the high-school auditors, and interviewed a large number of people, including every board-of-education member, Hatter said.

The auditors' goal was to get solid evidence of what has or has not been done, Hatter explained. To do that, they would "triangulate" information by asking multiple people about the same thing, she said.

"Evidence is a big thing," Hatter said. "I can say I'm doing this or that thing, but they want to see the evidence."

Hatter said the district's audit report is expected to be released in late April or early May, at which point "we will pick that report apart."

"We will find every statement in there that says something that's an opportunity for improvement," she said.

Crab Orchard city clerk plans to step down Friday

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

CRAB ORCHARD — Crab Orchard City Clerk Nancy Baker has said she will resign after three years in her position.

Baker said April 11 will be her last day on the job.

Mayor Billy Shelton said he hopes he can talk Baker, who is planning to move out-of-state, into staying.

"I'm hoping she may change her mind," Shelton said. "She's been just tremendous and we will miss her. … But if she's bettering herself, that's what I want her to do."

Baker celebrated her three-year anniversary working for Crab Orchard this month, Shelton said.

The city has advertised for the opening position and officials will hopefully interview applicants this week, Shelton said Monday.

Crab Orchard transfers its bank accounts

City commissioners voted unanimously April 3 to transfer Crab Orchard's checking and saving accounts to Casey County Bank.

Baker said the city's 18 checking accounts and one certificate of deposit account will be moving from First Southern National Bank to Casey County Bank, which recently opened a branch in Crab Orchard.

The bank branch is the first outside Casey County for the bank. Crab Orchard had been without a bank inside its city limits for around two years prior to the branch opening earlier this year.

In other Crab Orchard City Commission news:

• commissioners scheduled the city-wide yard sale for May 1-3 and the city-wide cleanup for May 5 and 6; and

• commissioners gave final approval to an ordinance increasing the salary for the next mayor from $200 to $300 per month.

Pleasant View Baptist Church news

Saturday, April 12, the Broughtontown Community Center is hosting an extremely worthwhile fundraiser. The benefit is the Eddie Hopkins Foundation Fund where all the monies collected will be used to aid people who need help during cancer treatments. Two gospel quartets, along with a band, will entertain following a meal. An auction, as well as a drawing for a stainless steel grill, will conclude the program. Hope to see you there!

Sunday, April 6, began with Bro. Kyle reciting an old, old song about Liza Jane having a hole in her bucket and how to fix it. He then went on to talk about our spiritual bucket having a hole in it. Until we "fix" it we cannot pour out of it because we are drained. His message came from Mark: 9:14-29 and was entitled "The Key to Spiritual Power".

In this passage, the disciples had been asked to deliver a young boy of demons that were in his body. Jesus walked in on the confrontation between the disciples and the townspeople because the disciples were unable to remove the demons.

Jesus had already commissioned the disciples to preach and heal; they were unable to do as they had been told. They had "lost their purpose"; they were not "guarding their hearts." After Jesus cast out the demons, the disciples asked why they were powerless to help. The disciples discovered they were unprepared because their souls, heart and minds were not ready to do what was needed. "A dry soul cannot be used by God," stated Bro. Kyle.

"If your bucket (soul) is empty, how can you pour out to others?" asked Bro. Kyle. "If we are going to have the spiritual powers to help others, we are going to have to wholeheartedly seek God," concluded Bro. Kyle.

Sunday evening services were cancelled to allow the church to go to Willow Grove for the Believer's Rally for the county wide revival. Jim Coldiron of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association led the service.

Pleasant View will observe the Lord's Supper next Sunday, April 13 (Palm Sunday) during both worship services.

Sympathy and prayers are extended to Susan Roberts McWilliams. Her husband Mark McWilliams passed away last Monday after a courageous battle with cancer. They lived in Birmingham, Ala. Susan is the daughter of Ralph and Martha Roberts.

Our Easter Eggstravaganza will be Saturday, April 19. More information will be coming soon.

Plans are under way for the Great Awakening Revival for the entire county; this is coming up April 27-May 2. This revival will be at the Kings Mountain Community Center. Sunday's service will begin at 6 p.m.; the rest of the week 7 p.m. will be the starting time.

Crossings Kid's Camp will be held July 20-23 for students finishing 2nd - 6th grade. The cost is $200. Contact Stacy Story for more details.

Thought for the week: "Easter – the rest of the Christmas story!"

News from the New Covenant Church

By Bethany Rowland

The services at New Covenant for the past few weeks have been absolutely amazing. The presence of God has been so strong in the worship services, the word of God so sharpening and true in the sermons, and the conviction and strength of God so powerful in the altar calls.

Pastor Joel Rowland has been preaching a series of sermons out of the book of Revelation on what it truly means to be the Church of Christ. God has been dealing with the hearts of the congregation so that we may truly be the body of Christ, that we may fulfill the true meaning of the normal Christian life. It has been such amazing to watch sinners falling in the altar, coming to repentance and a life with Christ while those who are already walking in relationship with God weep beside the sinners, begging God to make them into something more, to help us to die so that He may truly live.

We invite you to join us in our services at 3115 KY Highway 698 in Stanford. Wednesday nights at 7 p.m. and Sunday afternoons at 1 p.m. We also have men and women's group bible studies on Sunday nights at 7 p.m. and we would love to see you there! Always remember, it doesn't matter who you are, where you've been, or what you have done, YOU can start all over again!

An encouraging word

A time to remember

By Howard Coop

It was a beatific moment for me. Oblivious to those around me on that beautiful Sunday morning on Nov. 15, 1970, I stood at the summit of the Mount of Olives at the point where the old road from Bethany to Jerusalem crosses the Mount of Olives. Looking westward across the Kidron Valley, I saw the old city of Jerusalem and the Dome of the Rock which stands where the temple once stood.

In the reverie of that moment, I imagined a scene from long ago. Jesus, riding a donkey, a symbol of one coming in peace, was making his way from Bethany and over the hill to Jerusalem. Near the summit of the Mount of Olives, a large crowd of enthusiastic people greeted him. Some members of the crowd spread their cloaks on the road before him while others took palm fronds from nearby trees and spread them on the road. Everyone shouted, "Hosanna to the Son of David. Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord." After descending the hill on the west side of the Mount of Olives, Jesus crossed the Kidron Valley and entered Jerusalem.

It was a grand and glorious way to enter Jerusalem. Historians have called that event the triumphal entry, and it is remembered as a triumphant occasion on the day that has come to be known as Palm Sunday; but that is not the end. Before the week was over attitudes and loyalties of the people had changed demonstrably. One of his disciples denied him, another disciple betrayed him, and the mob shouted, "Nail him to the cross!" Pilate yielded to their wishes and "had Jesus whipped and handed him over to be nailed to the cross."

Palm Sunday is more than a time to joyously celebrate a triumphant event. It is a time to somberly remember that the human mind can be fickle, and for little reason, loyalties can change in a moment.

Fairview Baptist Church news

By Shelby Lakes

Bro. Johnny Baker based his message on Sunday on Hebrews 9 and other passages. There are many biblically illiterate people today, he said. Before, many families, even lost ones, talked about the Lord to an extent (in a healthy context).

People still live with a consciousness of guilt; even Adam and Eve did. Sin damaged the peace in their hearts, in their marriage, and in their relationships with God.

Before Christ, the blood of animals was sacrificed for sin, but now, Christ shed his blood as a sacrifice for us. In Hebrews 9:14, Paul said, "How much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works to serve the living God?"

This generation is coming up living in a fairy tale, Bro. Johnny said, thinking they can do good, but if they don't get their hearts right with Jesus, they will still have a guilty conscience. Any work we do without Jesus in our hearts is dead work, he said.

There is a remedy for sin sickness, as there has always been, Bro. Johnny said. God offers salvation to everyone, commanding all to repent of their sins and come to him before it is too late. The only thing that will give a sinner peace is Jesus, Bro. Johnny said. "You will need that peace when you breathe your last breath."

The good things you do will never clear your conscience, only Jesus. If you have never made Jesus the Lord of your life, you are condemned already, Bro. Johnny said. Every person that doesn't accept Christ will go to a place made for the devil and his angels. They, and the good old boys who never gave their lives to Christ, will be their companions. The devil will steal, kill, and destroy, but Jesus will give you life.

Stanford Christian Church

Palm Sunday is that day we celebrate Jesus' triumphant entry in to Jerusalem. Tragically, many of those hallelujahs turned into the hatred and those palm branches turned into thorns before that week ended. However, as viewed now from this side of the cross, we know God knew what He was doing (as always). Now we know that was His way of saving us from our sins and ourselves. Come celebrate Jesus' triumphant entry into our lives, as you worship with us each Sunday at the Stanford Christian Church, 200 East Main Street (next to the courthouse), at 10:50 a.m. Come sing His promises and wave the palm branches of victory with us.

Journey Community to hold Sunrise Service

IJ COMMUNITY

News from Highland United Methodist Church news

A wonderful group of worshippers gathered at the Highland United Methodist Church on Sunday, April 6.

We were glad to see Jeff and Bridgett Singleton in worship, and we were grateful that Fonzo McGuffey was able to be in attendance.

Jeff requested prayer for a friend, Tommy Harkleroad, who recently discovered that he has stage four pancreatic cancer.

Doris Scilley brought up that she had recently learned that her cousin, Teresa Reed Campbell, had been very ill and is still in the process of recovering.

Buddy Young requested prayer for a couple in Nicholasville that are having some health struggles.

Sunday's sermon was based on scripture from John 16:29-33. The title of the message was, "Don't Quit Now. You're Winning." The disciples had come to believe who Jesus was. Jesus revealed that they would be scattered, and He would be alone, but not alone for God would be with Him. He would help them to know peace. They would experience trouble, but He would provide victory. Rev. Scilley concluded with the poem, "Keep A Going."

The men recited scripture from Luke 9:62.

Next Sunday the women are to recite Luke 19:39b-40.

The choir will be singing, "Palms of Victory."

The children will be passing out palm branches, and they will also be singing a special.

Choir practice will continue next Sunday in preparing for four specials for Easter. They will include, "Who Am I," "I Need No Other Argument," (soloist- Rebecca Garcia) "Its Still the Cross," (soloist- Dawn Cheetham) and "Heaven for Me."

While Doris Scilley sings, "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked" various Holy Land scenes, corresponding with song lyrics, will be shown.

Services on Easter Sunday will begin at 10:45 a.m.

Following worship there will be our regular Easter egg hunt on the church grounds for the children.

Preceding Easter Sunday, there will be a Maundy Thursday service on April 17, at 7 p.m.

Too, there will be a Sunrise service on Easter Sunday at 7 a.m. at the cemetery. This service will be followed by a breakfast being prepared by the men.

Next Sunday's Palm Sunday services will be at the usual times of 10 and 11 a.m.

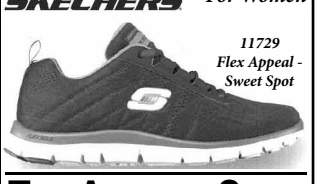

This writer was saddened to tears this past week because the oldest Methodist congregational church in the county, the Highland United Methodist Church, could not be included in the church groups in the county church registry because we had no "address." If mail were delivered to our address, it would be a Waynesburg address, and we are not in Waynesburg.

Many, especially past influential county and state persons, grew up, lived by and "died within the walls" of this "little white church beside the road." Some of the most honest hard-working citizens in this county worshipped within its walls.

Some of those include the Mr. and Mrs. Kelly McGuffey family, Roy, Lloyd, Harold, Doyle and Orville. Orville is no longer able to attend but his son, Mike and family and Orville's wife, Nancy, still attend. Others were Charlie and Della Pearl Reed Young, Less and Evalene Reed, Jim and Allie Young, Wayne and Helena Smith, Marie Butt Reed and the list could go on and on.

When Christ comes to claim His bride, His Church, many of these will meet Him in the air, and their address will then be Golden Streets, Heavenly Road, Heaven!

Anyone wishing to contact the church may do so by writing to the Highland United Methodist Church, c/o Mrs. Kim May, 390 Tick Ridge Rd., Waynesburg, KY 40489, or Rev. Donald Scilley, 4908 Wayne's Blvd, Lexington, KY 40513.

Stanford Nazarene Church news

By Buford Edwards II

Our mission at Stanford Church of the Nazarene is to share the gospel message of Jesus Christ to all the world and to be a place of healing and hope to all in need. Come as you are, Jesus will meet you there.

Sunday morning we celebrated the Lord's Day with song and word as we continued the Ashes to Fire series and the sermon brought by Bro. Buford from Ezekiel 37 on the subject, "The Valley of Dry Bones."

On Sunday night, we gathered back for more singing and testimonies and the Word from Bro. Buford as he continued the New Testament Letters series in Thessalonians.

Join us on Wednesday nights at 7 p.m. for our "Book Club." Right now the "Book Club" is engaging the Ashes to Fire series. This is an awesome series that leads us through Lent, Easter and Pentecost. You don't want to miss it. The youth also have powerful services, and there are classes for our children. It's a busy place on Wednesday, come check it out.

WE NEED YOUR HELP! The church is working hard on year two of the "Five Year Plan." We are actively raising funds to purchase a church van and pay off the debt on the fellowship hall. If you would like to donate to the cause, you can drop off a donation at any service or even mail in a donation. Just remember to write "Five Year Plan," somewhere (memo field of check or envelope of cash) in order for it to be properly designated.

The Men's Group and Youth Group have entered into a joint venture to complete service projects in the community. If you are in need of any work done around your home that you are unable to complete, or know of any folks in need, contact Bro. Robert Bowen or Bro. Dennis Hasty.

MARK YOUR CALENDARS: We are very excited to announce that we will be having the Crossroads Quartet joining us on Sunday, May 4 at 6 p.m. for a Gospel Singing Night. There is no admission fee but we will be receiving a love offering to help cover their traveling expenses.

On Saturday, April 19 at 2 p.m., we will be having the 2014 Eggstravaganza at the fellowship hall. We will be having an Easter egg hunt and snacks/games for the kids. All are welcome so come out and join us.

On Easter Sunday, April 20, we will be cancelling our evening services. Come join us for the morning services and spend the day with family and friends, celebrating our Risen Savior.

The ladies meet the first Tuesday of every month at 6 p.m. in the fellowship hall. Their next regular meeting will be Tuesday, May 6.

The Men's Group meets every other month on the second Monday of the month. However, our next meeting will be Saturday, May 17 at noon. We will be meeting for a target shoot and lunch on the farm. Come out and join us.

The church has an active food assistance program. If you know of anyone or have a need yourself, leave a message at the church.

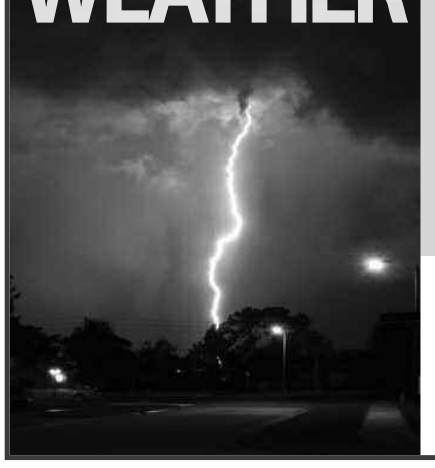

SERVICE TIMES: We have an amazing variety of blended services. Each week we have "Schoolin'" (Sunday school) beginning at 10 a.m., with worship services on Sunday at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. Additionally, our "Book Club," youth, and children all meet together on Wednesday nights at 7 p.m. The "Book Club" and children always meet at the church and the youth alternate between the church and fellowship hall each week.

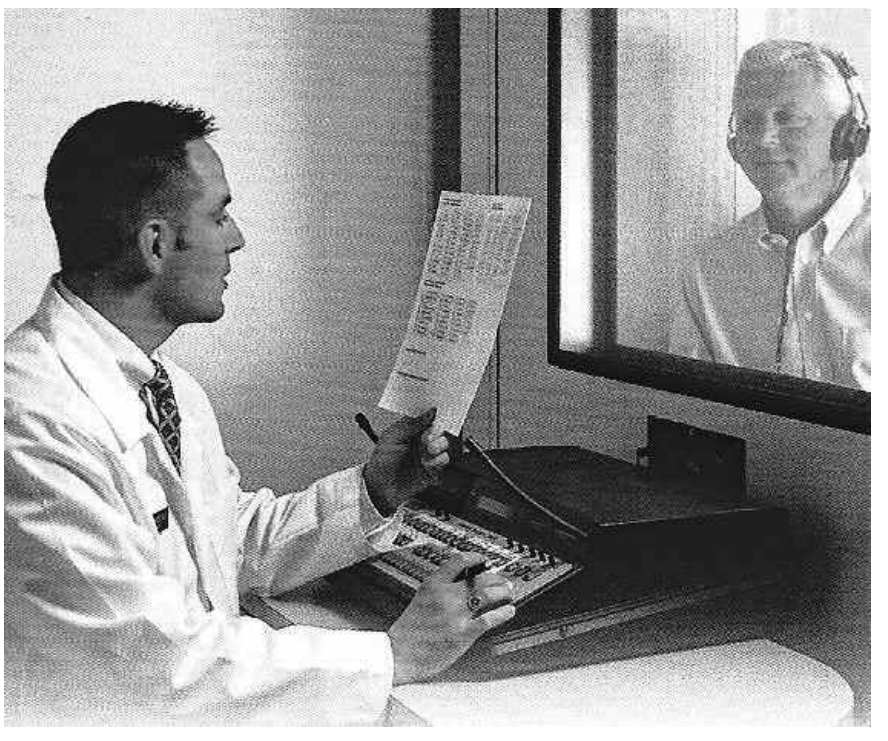

For more information about our youth group and children's programs, email the directors by logging on to our website at www.stanfordchurchofthenazarene.com

If you would like more information about our church and events, contact Pastor Buford Edwards at (606) 365-1260 or visit us on the web. Don't forget to also "like" the Stanford Church of the Nazarene on Facebook to receive updates and an encouraging word.

News from Family Worship Center

By Aline Matlock

There has been an abundance of colds and flu in the church, including myself, and I also had eye surgery, so that it is why the church news has not been in the paper.

The church had a spring dinner on Sunday, March 30 in the life center. Food was great as usual.

Children in kindergarten through sixth grade will present a skit on Sunday, May 25. There will be a song, play and later a skating party at Somerset.

Thanks to Karen, Lori and Lauren for cleaning and organizing the Life Center kitchen. It's that time of year again, to clean out and put back some new things.

Our prayer guide is found in 1 Samuel 11:1-6. There are some important truths in this chapter. May we never lack for faith, courage, or determination to fight for our faith for our liberty in Jesus.

If we find answers in a treaty with sin that has made us slaves. May we rise up in faith and reclaim our liberty in Jesus.

It's easy to be caught up in sin, made a slave of it, one look, one drink, one pull of a drug, will set the wheels in motion for us to be bound in sin again. David was pulled into a dreadful situation with one look he found himself in a web of lies, adultery and murder. Because he saw and desired Bathsheba. David became a servant of sin and committed premeditated murder of Bathsheba's husband. Sin can be broken when we repent and ask God's forgiveness and David did that, but his son was taken in death for the sins he committed. When we sin, we too must pay.

David learned a hard lesson for that one look, we too must be strong when sin is everywhere.

Stay safe this spring season

By Anne Davis, A.P.R.N.

It's spring, and that means more time to spend outdoors with the longer days and warmer temperatures. Parents should begin taking steps now to keep their families safe while enjoying warm weather activities.

Follow these safety tips as you get your child's play and sports equipment ready for use:

•Inspect bicycles, scooters and other riding toys to make sure that nuts and bolts are tight, moving parts are lubricated and bicycle chains have guards in place to prevent clothing from being pulled into the mechanism.

•Make sure your child's safety helmets are in good condition and still fit correctly because a helmet that does not fit properly does not offer proper protection.

•Inspect fences and gates around backyard pools and repair them if needed.

When your children get ready for outdoors play, remind them to play safely by:

•Always wearing a helmet when riding a bicycle.

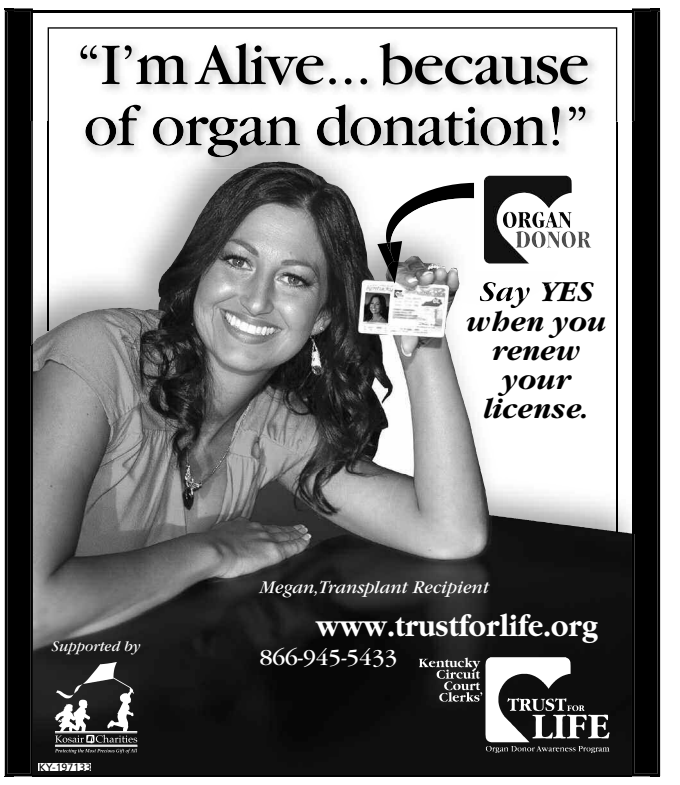

•Wearing elbow and knee pads when riding a scooter.

•Riding bicycles and scooters only during daylight hours or with proper lighting.

•Allowing only one person on a backyard trampoline at one time.

Children also need to be reminded to always look for vehicles as they are riding their bicycles and scooters. If your child is under the age of eight, remind him not to ride his bicycle and scooter unless he has adult supervision.

Rep. David Meade, R-Stanford, (first from right) joins Kinney Noe and those involved in saving his life from Stanford EMS, Air Evac Lifeteam and UK Chandler Medical Center Level 1 Trauma Center after Rep. Meade and the House of Representatives honored them for saving Noe's life after a hunting accident in 2011. Meade honors emergency, hospital workers

Representative David Meade, R-Stanford honored emergency and hospital workers on the floor of the Kentucky House of Representatives on March 26th for their work in saving the life of Kinney Noe. House Resolutions 240, 241, 242, and 243 recognized the efforts of Stanford EMS, East End Ambulance Service, Air Evac Lifeteam, and the UK Chandler Medical Center Level 1 Trauma Center.

"I want to thank the men and women who saved the life of our friend and neighbor Kinney Noe," said Rep. Meade during remarks on the floor of the Kentucky House. "Because of their efforts Kinney Noe is still here for his family, his friends, and his community. These individuals showed bravery, exhibited calm under intense pressure, and their knowledge of how to react in life-saving situations."

On the morning of Nov. 13, 2011, Kinney Noe and his daughter, Kandis, were on a hunting trip on his 300-acre Ottenheim farm when Noe fell from his tree stand and landed on a limb, which entered through his body and did extensive damage to his lungs, liver, and diaphragm. Stanford EMS and East End Ambulance Service responded quickly, providing life saving measures while awaiting the arrival of a crew from Air Evac Lifeteam.

The helicopter crew continued life saving work on Noe and flew him to UK Chandler Medical Center in Lexington, which provided the care that not only saved Noe's life in conjunction with the work of the other organizations involved but allowed him to recover fully.

"The folks who work in our EMS departments, hospitals, and life flights across our state dedicate their lives to saving others in our community every day," Rep. Meade said on the House floor. "Many people see movie stars or athletes as heroes, but I say to you that the men and women standing before you today, and the men and women like them across our state are true heroes."

Letter Carrier Stamp Out Hunger Food Drive is May 10

By James R. Smith, NALC, Retired
Central Ky. Branch 361

Letter carriers walk through the community every day, often coming face to face with a sad reality for too many, hunger.

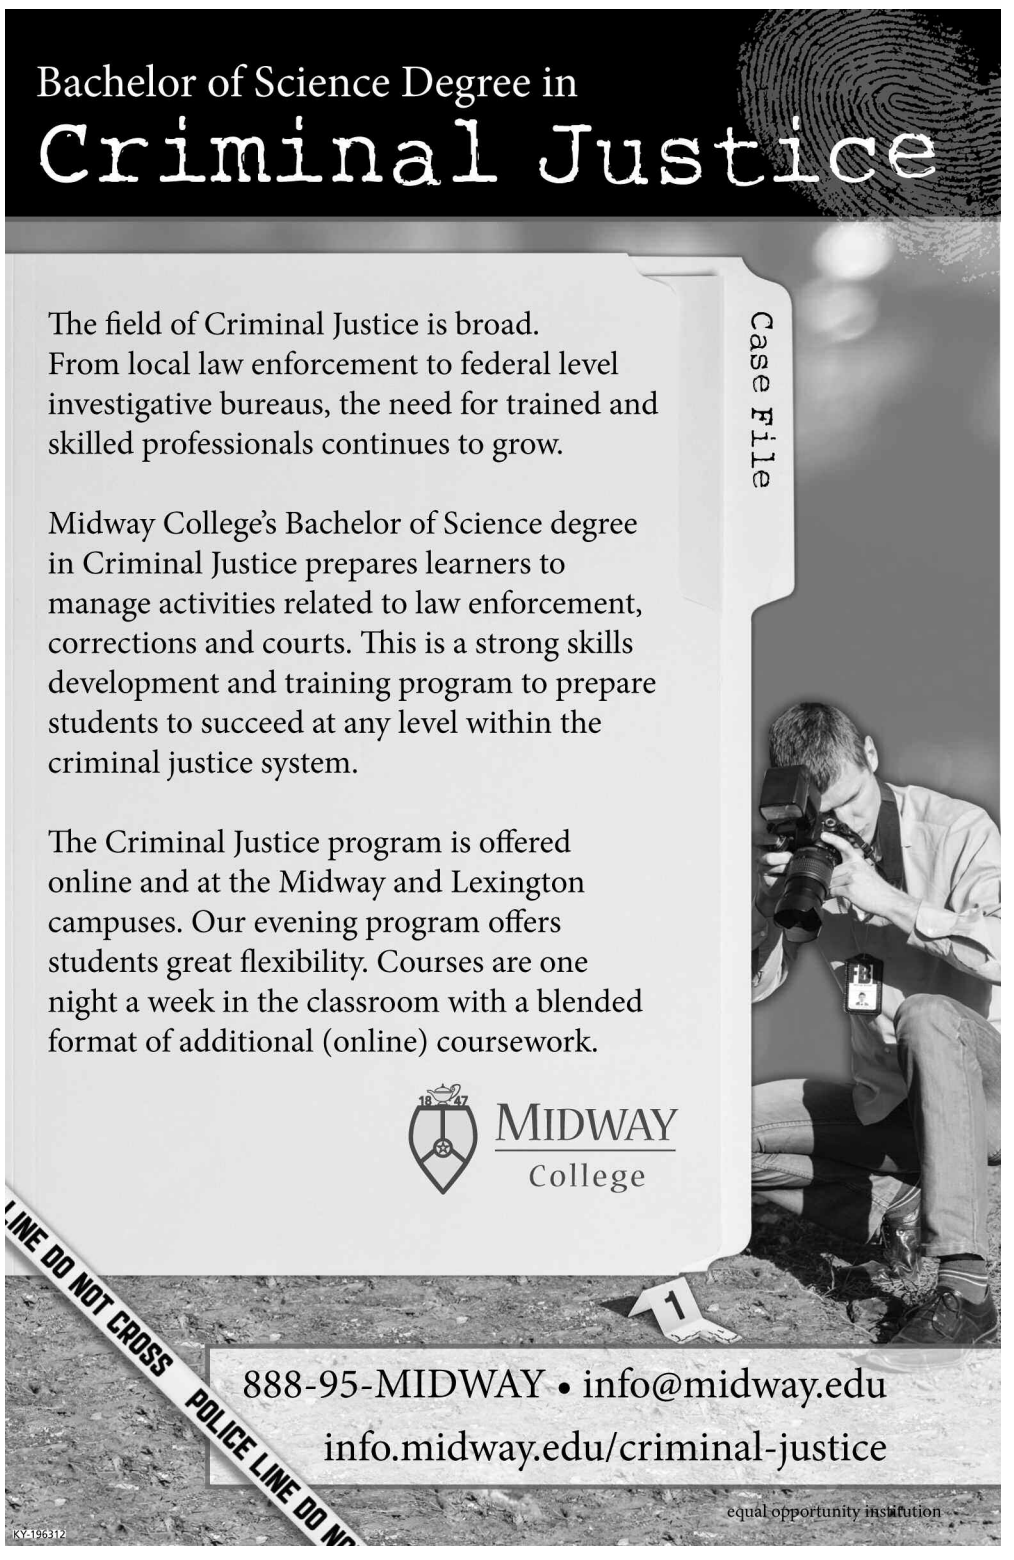

So, each year on the second Saturday in May, letter carriers across the country collect non-perishable food donations from our customers. These donations go directly to local food pantries to provide food to people in Stanford who need our help.

Last year, we collected over 74 million pounds of food nationally, feeding an estimated 30 million people. Over the course of its 21-year history, the drive has collected well over one billion pounds of food, thanks to a postal service universal delivery network that spans the entire nation, including Puerto Rico, Guam and U.S. Virgin Islands.

The need for food donations is great. Currently, 49 million Americans - one in six - are unsure where their next meal is coming from. Sixteen million are children who feel hunger's impact on their overall health and ability to perform in school. And nearly five million seniors over age 60 are food insecure, with many who live on fixed incomes often too embarrassed to ask for help.

Our food drive's timing is crucial. Food banks and pantries often receive the majority of their donations during the Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday seasons. By springtime, many pantries are depleted, entering the summer low on supplies at a time when many school breakfast and lunch programs are not available to children in need.

Participating in this year's Letter Carrier Stamp Out Hunger Food Drive is simple. Just leave a non-perishable food donation in a bag by your mailbox on Saturday, May 10 and your letter carrier will do the rest. I invite you to join in America's great day of giving and help us in our fight to end hunger.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE
COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY
28TH JUDICIAL DISTRICT
LINCOLN CIRCUIT COURT
DIVISION NO. II
CIVIL ACTION NO. 13-CI-00211

KENTUCKY HOUSING CORPORATION — PLAINTIFF

vs. NOTICE OF SALE

PENNY STIDHAM N/K/A PENNY STIDHAM SIMS ET AL — DEFENDANTS

FRIDAY, APRIL 25, 2014, AT 10:00 A.M.
FRONT DOOR, LINCOLN COUNTY COURTHOUSE

Pursuant to a Judgment and Order of Sale of the Lincoln Circuit Court entered October 4, 2013, in the above-styled civil action, the undersigned Master Commissioner will sell the following real property located in Lincoln County, Kentucky, at the front door, Lincoln County Courthouse, on Friday, April 25, 2014, at the hour of 10:00 a.m., or as soon thereafter as said property can be sold, said property being more particularly described as follows:

Lot No. 10, Goshen Subdivision - Phase 3, as shown on a plat of record in Plat Slide B-724, Lincoln County Court Clerk's Office, to which reference is hereby made for a more particular description.

This being the same property acquired by Penny Stidham, a single person, by deed from William E. Miracle, Jr., a single person, dated August 22, 2008, of record in Deed Book 380, Page 447, Lincoln County Court Clerk's Office.

The above described real property will be sold and conveyed subject to such valid and existing easements, restrictions, reservations, conditions, covenants and limitations apparent or of record in the chain of title.

The sale of the above real property will be made on a credit of thirty (30) days time with the privilege extended to the purchaser of paying the entire purchase price, or any part in excess of ten percent (10%) thereof, in cash at the time of the sale. If the sale be made on credit, the purchaser shall pay to the Master Commissioner immediately at the time of the sale ten percent (10%) of the total sale price and execute bond for the balance due in thirty (30) days, bearing interest at the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum from the date of sale until paid, with a good and sufficient surety thereon; and the bond shall be secured by a lien upon said property sold which shall have the full force and effect of a judgment. The purchaser may pay the purchase price money due on the bond with accrued interest at any time before maturity.

The real property described herein is to be sold at the time and place stated; and shall be sold free and clear of all liens, indebtedness, interests and claims of the parties hereto, subject to any and all applicable statutory rights of redemption.

All delinquent ad valorem taxes, if any, interest and penalties will be paid out of the proceeds of said sale. The purchaser will be responsible for payment of the 2014 ad valorem taxes.

Possession of the real property will be given to the purchaser with the delivery of the deed of conveyance thereto. The purchaser will be responsible for all risks of loss to the premises upon acceptance of their bid at the time of sale.

The purpose of this sale is to satisfy the judgment of the Lincoln Circuit Court in the above-styled action in favor of Plaintiff in the sum of $71,429.97 plus interest, advances for the protection of the property, costs and attorney fees as authorized and provided in said Judgment.

For further information concerning the above sale contact: Hon. Jeremy M. Rettig, Attorney for Plaintiff, Stierle and Rettig, PLLC, 410 West Chestnut Street, Suite 617, Louisville, KY 40202, Tel. #502-584-5223.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Ky needs standards for nursing homes

Let me bring to light an issue affecting all of Kentucky. Are you aware that Kentucky does not have minimum direct care staffing standards for nursing homes? That's right! Perhaps your assumption and hope is that our sickest, most vulnerable citizens are being watched over in your community nursing homes with care, but is it enough care? In Kentucky, approximately 26,000 residents occupy beds in long-term care facilities and all that's expected is that facilities provide "sufficient staff to meet the needs of the resident". Kentucky's nursing home staffing standard required for licensed staff (RN, LPN/LVN) is a ratio of 1 for every 60 occupied beds, and there are no minimum requirements for direct care staff, such as certified nurse's assistants.

The 2011 study titled, The Influence of Nurse Staffing Levels on Quality of Care in Nursing Homes, published by the National Consumer found a link between staffing and nursing home quality. Specifically, the study confirmed that higher nurse aide staffing levels were predictors of lower total deficiency scores for facilities. Increasing staffing benefits both the nursing home and the residents. In my experience, minimum staff ratios, along with supervision and staff education, impacts the care that residents receive and their quality of life in the nursing home. A nursing home should feel like your home rather than a health care assembly line.

This legislative session House Bill 549 was introduced. HB 549 seeks to establish minimum staff-to-resident ratios in long-term care facilities. Residents sick and dependent upon others for daily care deserve at least minimum staffing standards. HB 549 is a step in the right direction for improving the quality of care for Kentucky's long-term care residents.

Women still behind on their paychecks

Tuesday, April 8, was observed as Equal Pay Day across the nation. That was the point when women's wages finally caught up to men's wages from last year.

The latest wage numbers from the US Department of Labor (2012) show that the gender wage gap has remained statistically unchanged in this century. Women's earnings were 76.5 percent of men's, and have been hanging around the 77% mark since 2000. When the Equal Pay Act was enacted in 1963, women were making 59 cent for every dollar a man earned. Improvement in narrowing that gap has steadily improved until this century, but has been stagnant for over 10 years.

What does this mean for women? It means that regardless of education, race, age, occupation, or work experience, women are being cheated. For women of color, the statistics are even more grim; for African-American women the percentage is 68.6, for Latina women it is 57.5.

These pennies add up into thousands of dollars over the course of a career. And it doesn't stop there; because women make less, their retirement funds also are shortchanged. This inequity affects families – women are now the breadwinner or co-breadwinner in two-thirds of all American families.

If you see women wearing a red purse sticker or carrying a red purse, they are drawing attention to this inequity. Danville Business and Professional Women are proud to be a part of this group. If you would like to know more about pay inequity or BPW, please call 606.365.9408.

Budget focuses on education; other bills hone in on health

Chris Girdler
State Senator

FRANKFORT (April 3) — The General Assembly this week approved the state's budget – a 250-page document that spells out how $20.3 billion will be spent over the next two years. Getting an agreed-upon, finalized version back to the Governor's desk is a monumental task. We have to pair needs with resources; appropriations with priorities. We also must have debt balanced by revenue.

Of great importance to me is the final budget's support of Kentucky's education efforts from preschool to college. The plan will expand the state's preschool program in 2016, increase K-12 per-pupil (SEEK) funding, add nearly $10 million for education technology and authorize many important capital projects on our college campuses.

While some state agencies and programs will face cuts up to 5 percent in the next biennium, critical areas like Medicaid are protected from reductions. Funding of child care subsidies for low-income families will be restored for household incomes of up to 125 percent of the federal poverty level in 2015 and expanded to families earning incomes of up to 160 percent of the poverty level in 2016.

In addition, the budget provides for a salary increase for local school district certified and classified staff. The increase will be not less than one percent in FY15 and not less than two percent in FY16.

There is never enough money to fund all of the worthy projects and programs in the state, but the final product, most lawmakers agree, is a prudent and responsible way to move our state forward.

Many of the other bills sent to the Governor are aimed at improving the health and safety of Kentuckians young and old.

Senate Bill 98 will create an adult abuse registry and require agencies that employ adult caregivers to check the registry database before hiring a personal care staff member. The registry would be maintained by the Cabinet for Health and Family Services and would also be available for individuals or families seeking to hire a caregiver. Currently, nursing homes, adult care agencies and families have no way of knowing if a potential employee has been fired for confirmed abuse or neglect. An adult abuse registry will help employers hire responsible caregivers and, more importantly, will better protect our vulnerable citizens from harm.

Senate Bill 109 will prohibit the sale of "electronic cigarettes" to minors. These e-cigarettes are sometimes marketed and sold as a safer alternative to traditional cigarettes because they are smokeless. But, they still emit a vaporized form of nicotine to users that many people feel is still addictive and unsafe for youth. We want to do all we can to protect our children from drugs, including nicotine, and this measure will help do that.

Senate Bill 124 will allow research and limited medical use of cannabis oil. Under the measure, doctors at the state's two university research hospitals can prescribe the oil to patients, as well as conduct studies of its effectiveness. The oil has been used as an effective treatment for certain medical conditions, especially pediatric epilepsy. The measure has been named the Clara Madeline Gilliam Act in honor of a Kentucky baby who suffers from pediatric epilepsy. Hers and many other parents of children with epilepsy lobbied for the measure. We hope this provides relief to these families.

The General Assembly is now recessed for a ten-day veto period. While consensus hasn't been reached on important bills like anti-heroin abuse and the state's Road Plan, we are still working hard, in informal discussions during recess, toward final agreement on these and many other measures. There's still time for bills to receive final passage.

We return to Frankfort on April 14 to complete the final two working days of the legislative session. We'll consider any vetoes the Governor might enact on any of the various bills we've passed so far, as well as put a final stamp of approval on any of those last-minute bills still being considered.

In the meantime, you can review the work of the Kentucky General Assembly by visiting our website at www.lrc.ky.gov. Archived meetings and proceedings from the session can be viewed at www.ket.org. To check the status of a bill, you may call the toll-free Bill Status Line at 866-840-2835.

And there's still time to weigh in on matters important to you. If you would like to share your thoughts on any legislation, you may call my office directly at 502-564-8100. To leave a message for me, or any legislator, call the General Assembly's toll-free Message Line at 800-372-7181.

I welcome your comments and concerns on any issues impacting our Commonwealth during the final days of the 2014 Regular Session. House and senate pass 2-year budget prior to veto period

David Meade
State Representative

FRANKFORT (April 3) — Lawmakers in both the House and Senate finished up the majority of work for the 2014 Regular Session, capping off Monday night's session with passage of a new two-year budget for the Commonwealth.

The agreement was the culmination of five days of negotiations between leadership in the House and Senate, including an all day session of meetings on Saturday that stretched into the early morning hours on Sunday when the announcement of a compromise on the budget bill had been reached.

The $20 billion budget for the next two fiscal years includes pay raises for teachers of one percent in Fiscal Year 2015, and two percent in 2016. Originally the budget bill mandated a two percent raise in the first year, and one percent in the second. That prompted many school districts to contact us with concerns about having the funds necessary to cover raises without putting themselves in a financial hole. According to our review, more than 80 school districts would have been put in the red under the original proposal.

We made the change to allow school systems to put a financial plan in place now in anticipation of the two percent raise in 2016. While I fully support providing salary increases to our deserving educators, it must be done in a way that is fiscally responsible.

The budget proposal also directs that excess funds from Kentucky's SEEK formula go toward additional expenses accrued by teachers in their health insurance plans, and any money left over would go into the Kentucky Teachers' Retirement System. In addition, we reduced the amount of fund cuts to public universities to 1.5 percent, and also provide for pay raises for state employees for the first time since 2008.

While we know this is not a perfect budget, the compromise plan we passed attempts to make our Commonwealth more fiscally responsible without placing mountains of debt on our future generations. We also need to face reality and tackle issues like comprehensive tax reform and other initiatives to bring more jobs and grow our economy in 2015.

The next two weeks are referred to as the veto period, when Governor Beshear reviews passed bills like the budget and decides whether to veto part or all of the legislation. During that time, lawmakers will continue work on a compromise on Kentucky's road plan, which I anticipate we will take up along with any of the governor's vetoes when we return to Frankfort on April 14th for the final two days of the session.

I welcome your comments and concerns on any issues impacting our Commonwealth during the final days of the 2014 Regular Session. I can be reached through the toll-free message line in Frankfort at 1-800-372-7181, or you can contact me via e-mail at david.meade@lrc.ky.gov. The Living Last Supper to be presented April 13

The public is cordially invited to share in the performance of The Living Last Supper that will be presented on Sunday, April 13 at 6 p.m. at Stanford Baptist Church. The Living Last Supper written by Ernest K. Pmurian and edited by Ben Hawkins depicts the DiVinci Last Supper.

The cast includes Nathaniel - Jonathan Baker, James the Lesser - Jeff Morris, Andrew - Brett Curlis, Judas - Shawn Ingram, Peter - Brandon Curlis, John - Mark Upchurch, Thomas - Daniel Foster, James - Tim Godbey, Phillip - Kevin Coots, Matthew - David Grigson, Thaddeus - Philip Sebastian, Simon the Zealot - Damon Foster, Jesus - Michael Tracy. Billy Harris will serve as narrator.

In this play, each of the disciples give a heart searching narrative as they try to determine who will betray Christ. This is an opportunity for the audience to also search their own hearts.

Soloists for the program will be Evonna Marcum, Michael Tracy, Rachael Yaden and Lisa Johnson. Accompanists will be Becky Stogsdill - piano, Laura Lee Wesley - organ and Susan Kirkpatrick - flute.

The community is invited to share in this Holy Week event. A reception will follow the service in the Christian Life Center.

Hospitals pass state inspections

The laboratories at Ephraim McDowell Regional Medical Center and Ephraim McDowell Fort Logan Hospital recently passed a state inspection of their transfusion services. The inspection was done by the Kentucky Office of Inspector General (OIG). During the inspections, no deficiencies were found at either location, making both laboratories 100 percent compliant.

"We are proud of our labs and very pleased with how we performed during this recent inspection," said Rick Scott, director of laboratory services. "The inspector was very complimentary of our efforts to maintain a high standard regarding our transfusion services and especially complimentary of our processes to assure patient safety."

FUNDRAISER

From A1

Since 2008, money from the foundation have been used for such things as funeral expenses, rent, medical expenses and other bills.

But now the foundation, also referred to as "Families Helping Families," is in need of funds.

To help alleviate that need, a Families Helping Families Fundraiser is being held Saturday at the Broughtontown Community Center on Ky. 1781. Event coordinators are hoping for a big turnout from the local communities.

"We're expecting a big crowd," said Joe French, who is helping coordinate the event with Loren Simpson. "We've had quite a few fundraisers before and raised quite a bit of money for people who are sick."

All the money raised will go to the foundation to help families dealing with cancer.

"This is a special fund; it won't have nothing to do with the Community Center," French said. "It's just to help people with cancer. It's a special bank account. When somebody calls who needs help, we want to help, but we make sure its legit before money is given out."

The event begins at 4 p.m. and will include a meal, live music and an auction. A pulled pork barbecue meal will be served at 4 p.m. The cost is $6 for adults and $4 for children. Two gospel groups will be singing and a Bluegrass band will be performing.

The night's auction should begin between 5:30 and 6 p.m.

If the center's past record in holding fundraisers is any indication, Saturday's event should bring in some big money.

"Out of the last two and a half years, we've probably had five or six of these fundraisers — not this big because we haven't reached out like we have with this one — but we've raised over $50,000," Loren Simpson said.

The last two fundraisers held by the center each raised about $13,000.

Simpson is hoping for more donations Saturday.

"These people do come out and support this," he said. "I'd like to see a little bit more this time. I'll be satisfied with whatever we get, but I'd like to see $15,000 if we can get it."

"That's a whole lot of money that can be used to give away to families who need help," French said.

But to see that kind of money raised Saturday, more donations are needed.

The center invited local politicians to attend and asked Lincoln County's churches, funeral homes, businesses and banking institutions to help, but organizers said they have not gotten the response they had hoped for.

"Right now we're getting more help (from) out of the county than in the county," Simpson said. "We've invited all the local politicians and asked them to bring a prize that we can auction off. We've contacted all the churches and asked them for help. We've asked all the banks in the county and funeral homes.

"Casey County Bank that's going in up here is the only bank in the county that has contacted us. None of the funeral homes have contacted us either. They may, because it's not until Saturday but they haven't so far."

Simpson wants to remind people that the Eddy Hopkins Foundation is a good cause to stand behind.

"What kind of gripes me a little bit, when you ask people, like the banks, they say, 'Well, we've got to give to the Relay for Life.' That is a good cause, but this here is just as important," he said. "This is a big ministry here. The way we look at it, this here is just as important because we're helping the local people that need help. We're trying to help our own. The other helps, but that money goes for research."

French likes that the money raised for the Eddy Hopkins Foundation helps Lincoln County residents, noting that dealing with cancer is a costly process, and that many people aren't prepared or able to deal with the financial burden.

"A lot of people really don't realize the need. They don't wake up until they need help themselves. And this (money) goes to help them," he said. "We try to help how we can. Even if it's just needing gas to go to Lexington, we help with that if we can. It takes a lot of gas anymore to go to those doctors' visits."

While Saturday's fundraiser is still two days away, Simpson said plans are already in order for future fundraisers.

"We voted and we're going to start making this an annual thing because we want to try to make things easier for people," he said.

It's not too late to make donations for Saturday's fundraiser. For more information or to donate, contact Loren Simpson at 606-355-2820.

SALARY

believes $30,000 is "where we ought to be."

"I feel like if we lower the salary, we're going backwards and not going forward," he said. "… $30,000 isn't a great deal of money for any type of profession. I feel like it's a fair salary. If this council wanted to go less I would entertain $26,000."

Councilman Eddie Carter, who has filed to run for the mayor's seat in this year's election, said he believes the city is facing "a lot of expense" and cutting the mayor's salary would be one way to provide extra money.

"I just don't want to see us have to get into raising taxes," Carter said.

Carter voted for an ordinance in February and March that would have lowered the salary to $18,000. When Miracle blocked that ordinance with a veto, Carter came back to the council with what he called a compromise ordinance, that would set the salary at $21,000.

That second ordinance has not had a second reading, but Miracle has said he intends to veto it if it does.

The mayor's veto can only be overridden by five votes from the city council, meaning Southerland or Ernst would have to change from no to yes before the council could force the ordinance through.

Carter said he wants to "try one more time for a compromise," suggesting a third ordinance could be brought before the council.

Any ordinance setting the mayor's salary for the 2015-2018 term would have to be on the books by the first Monday in May in order to have an effect. Otherwise, according to state law, the salary would revert to the $30,000 it was set at for the 2011-2014 term.

Councilman Tom Moser, who pushed early in the year to set the salary at $15,000 and strip all health insurance benefits from the position, said he believes the mayoral position is a "part-time job" that doesn't have enough duties to warrant a $30,000 salary.

Miracle and previous mayors, including Carter, have worked other jobs while also serving as mayor, Moser said.

Moser noted that "there's been a lot more discussion on lowering" the salary than there ever was discussion back when the council, including Carter, voted to increase the salary to $30,000.

Carter acknowledged he believes he made a mistake when he voted to increase the salary to its current level.

Miracle said while he initially was willing to see the mayoral salary adjusted downward, after doing research on how Stanford compares to other cities, he doesn't think the city is paying too much.

Miracle criticized the methods used by Carter, Moser and Councilwoman Amy Hazlett — who was absent from the meeting — to determine what they thought the salary should be.

Miracle said the council members obtained a list of cities and their mayoral salaries without considering the type of government in each city or other factors such as whether the cities have paid administrators or city managers.

Stanford does not currently have any such administrator or manager.

"I think the different type of government ought to affect the salary," Miracle said. "When you have a paid administrator who is running the day-to-day operation of the city, that should affect the salary."

Miracle said his main concern is that the council could negatively impact the quality of future candidates for the position if they set a low bar for the mayoral salary.

While there are candidates this time around — Carter and former Judge-Executive R.W. "Buckwheat" Gilbert have filed to run for the position so far — who are willing to work for less money, Miracle questioned whether that would be the case down the road.

When Carter pointed out the salary could be re-upped for a future term, Miracle said it would be difficult to get a council to support such an increase.

Miracle said he feels as though there is not much transparency coming from the council members proposing the salary cuts, because he never hears about any proposed ordinances until they come before the council for a vote.

"There's a lot of talking outside the meetings like this that's going on and the mayor's not even a part of this," he said.

Miracle said he thinks the council members proposing a cut need to talk with those on the other side as well if they want to reach a true compromise.

Miracle also said he would "go on record" and promise that if the salary is left at $30,000 and he is reelected as mayor, he will donate $7,500 of the salary back to city, appropriated for the Arts and Music Program.

Carter responded that the city cannot begin passing legislation based on such promises. The salary, he said, "needs to be where it needs to be," regardless of what promises are made by candidates.

The council moved on to other issues without taking any action.

Hustonville cashes CD for water tank upgrade

HUSTONVILLE — Hustonville City Council members voted 5-0 April 1 to cash in a $150,000 savings account in order to pay for the repainting and upgrading of the Hustonville water tower.

The water-tower project will cost $89,000, based on a bid from contractor R&P that council members approved in March. Mayor David Peyton has said the remaining funds from the $150,000 certificate of deposit account can be used as a buffer for city expenses during another water project that's in the works — a $421,000 water-system upgrade intended to replace old water lines that are too small and improve pressure to fire hydrants.

For the water-tower project, R&P has been charged with resurfacing the tank and installing a mixing system that improves water quality.

The tank was last resurfaced in 1991. Peyton has said he expects the new resurfacing to last for 25-30 years.

Fair board pursues paving grant

STANFORD — A $75,000 grant could allow the Lincoln County Fair to pave a walkway around the midway prior to this year's fair, if everything goes as planned.

The Lincoln County Fiscal Court has agreed to act as a conduit for the grant from the Kentucky Association of Fairs and Horse Shows, which gets the funding through the Kentucky Department of Agriculture.

Lincoln County Magistrate David Faulkner said there has been some misunderstanding about the grant, with some people hearing that the county is paying for the paving out of its own general fund.

But the county isn't spending any of its money on the project — the money will be flowing into the county from the grant and then back out for the paving, he explained.

Magistrates have approved a budget amendment reflecting just that — $75,000 in added revenue from the grant and $75,000 in added expense for the project.

Fair board member Mike Poynter said the grant is still in the works and no money has been received yet for the project. But if the funding comes through in time, the board hopes it could have the paving done by June 1, he said.

RACE FOR A CURE: Correll, Lewis lead way in benefit 5K

RACE FOR A CURE winner Preston Correll (246) is out in front at the start of the annual 5K in downtown Stanford Saturday morning. Correll led a field of 76 runners and 42 walkers, crossing the finish line in 19:27. Correll's 19:27 was the only sub-20 time over the 3.1-mile race. 118 participate in ACS Relay For Life run/walk

By Nancy Leedy

STANFORD — Saturday morning while many Stanford residents were still nestled all snug in their beds, dozens of runners and walkers were roaming the downtown streets preparing for an early run/walk.

A total of 118 runners and walkers crowded Stanford's Main Street as they gathered for the 9 a.m. starter's horn on the annual American Cancer Society Relay for Life Race for a Cure.

Families and friends applauded and cheered as the Race for a Cure participants left the starting line at the corner of Mill Street and Main Street, heading along West Main to Danville Avenue and a winding route that stretched into the back streets of Stanford before ending back on Main.

Everyone seemed to enjoy the early morning exercise provided by the Race for a Cure, but all the participants knew the main reason for them being there was to raise funds for the American Cancer Society (ACS) and cancer research.

> 'Lincoln County is just so giving. When you talk about Relay for Life they just seem to really step forward ... I'm really proud of our community.'
> Donya Saylor, Relay for Life Chair

And raise money they did. While the final total is not known, the local Relay for Life committee expects to have raised around $4,400.

"I still don't know our final total, how much we raised, because we're still waiting on some sponsor money," Lincoln County Relay for Life chair Donya Saylor said. "We think we did really well, though."

As a longtime Relay for Life committee member, Saylor knows just how generous this community can be when it comes to ACS donations.

"Lincoln County is just so giving," said Saylor. "When you talk about Relay for Life they just seem to really step forward. We won that per capita award (for top donations in six-state division) so it shows how giving Lincoln County is. We're just an outstanding community and I'm really proud of our community."

Lincoln's Relay for Life Race for a Cure fell below its desired goal of participants, but Saylor said the committee wasn't complaining over the 185 who registered, including runners, walkers and "Skip the Race" entries.

"We kind of had a goal to try to reach 200, but we were still very happy with

RELAY FOR LIFE committee member Mae Renner served as "Key Keeper" for the annual Race for a Cure, tending to keys, wallets, purses, coats and any other belongings race participants couldn't carry with them on the run/walk.

Rain washes out LC games, matches

Mother nature was the big winner Thursday, Monday and Tuesday as rain washed out many of Lincoln's games or matches.

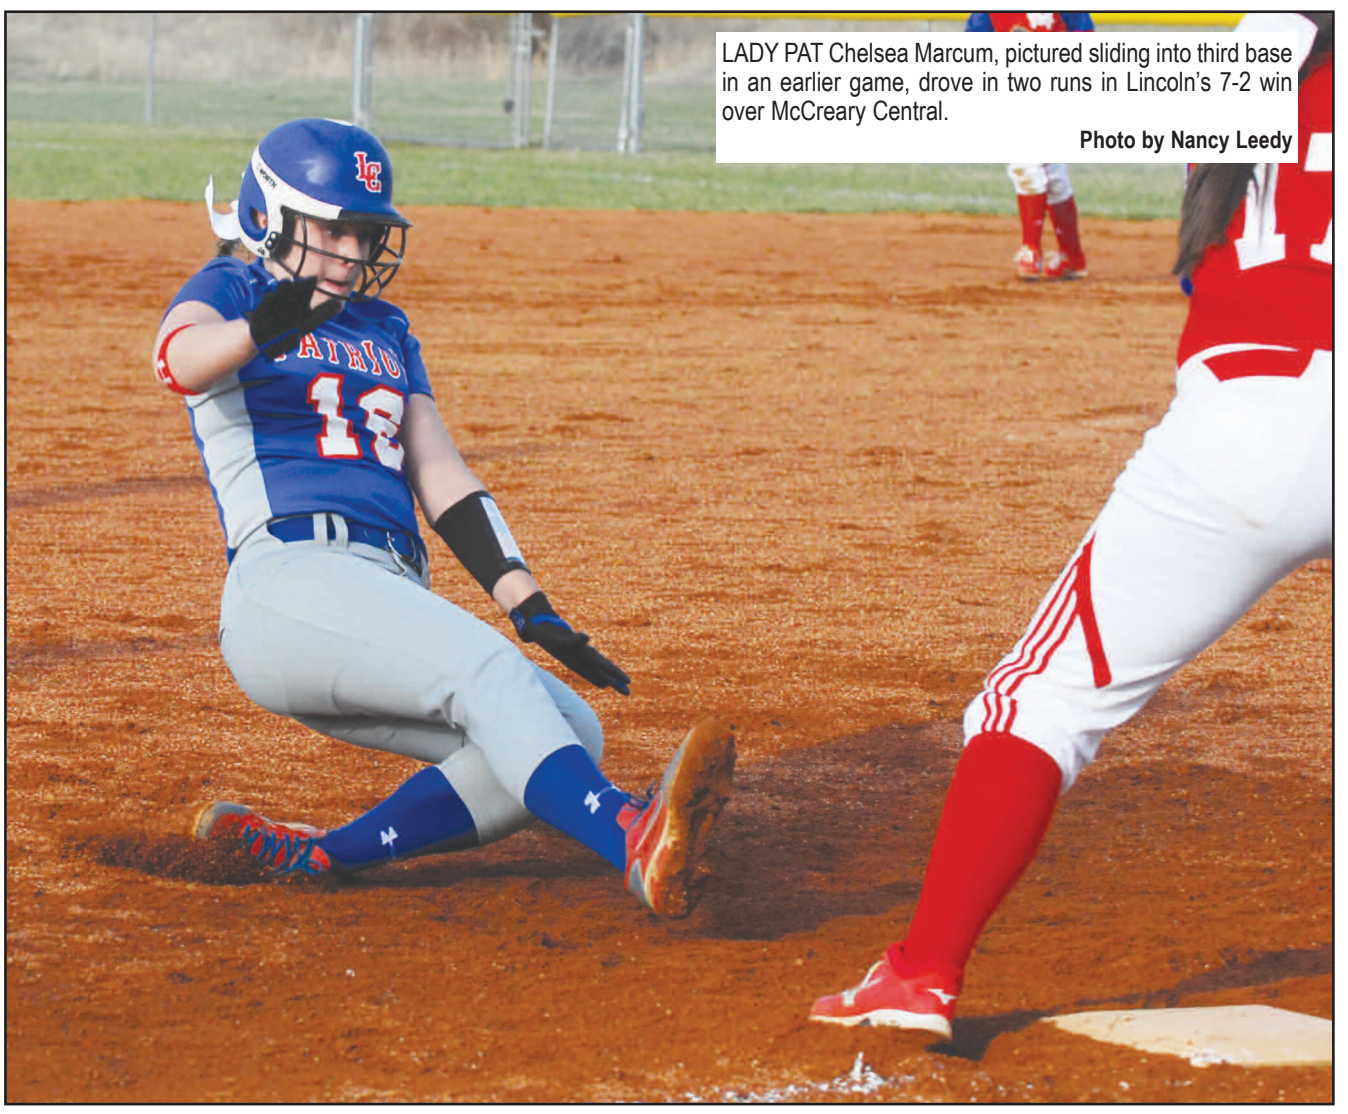

Heavy rains Thursday forced school officials to cancel Lincoln County's softball game at Madison Southern in Berea and the Lincoln baseball team's home game with Casey County.

Monday rains resulted in an off day for the Lady Patriot tennis team, with wet courts forcing the cancellation of the team's home match with Garrard County.

There was no rainfall at gametime Tuesday, however, the threat of rain resulted in the Lincoln-Boyle County softball game being postponed. The Lady Patriots will play host to Boyle County Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. at First Southern's Veterans Park.

No makeup dates were announced for the other games or matches which were cancelled.

The Lincoln County softball team pounded out 12 hits and scored six runs over three innings to beat visiting McCreary Central 7-2 and collect its fourth straight win.

Hannah Brown drove in two runs and scored twice for Lincoln, and Maggie Taylor, Chelsea Marcum and Jaylan Sowders all drove in runs.

Lincoln (5-2) never trailed in the game, scoring all the runs it needed for the win in the third and fourth innings.

Sowders, who went 2-for-3, tagged an RBI-single in the bottom of the third inning to get the Lady Patriots started. They tacked on two more runs in the fourth, with Alyssa Meece scoring on an error and Maggie Taylor, who was also 2-for-3, following with an RBI-single to plate Jenna King and make it 3-0.

the 185 participants," Saylor said.

Less than 20 minutes after the horn sounded on the start of the Race for a Cure Run/Walk, Preston Correll came running down Lancaster Street all alone, headed for the final turn onto Main Street and the final stretch. The Stanford runner was the only sub-20 participant in the race, finishing the 3.1-mile distance in 19:27, exactly 1 minute, 27 seconds ahead of the second-place runner, Gary Minter. Minter's time was 20:54.

Amanda Lewis was the overall female winner and the 11th runner to cross the finish line. Lewis covered the 5K distance in a time of 26:30.

Ann Stevens was the second female runner across, finishing in 27:24.

Twenty-one of Lincoln's 30 Relay for Life teams participated and/or helped with the race and will share the donations among their teams to donate to the American Cancer Society.

"We had the good weather, great crowd and a lot of the teams participated," said Saylor. "Overall, I thought it went over well. Everybody enjoyed it and we made some money for the ACS which goes toward our total for Relay for Life. It was just awesome."

Martha Martin and Van Munford were recognized as the oldest participants in the race and Lincoln Lawson was honored as the youngest participant.

The Stanford Christian Church team won for having the most registered for the Race for a Cure with 41.

Bat Patriots get first win

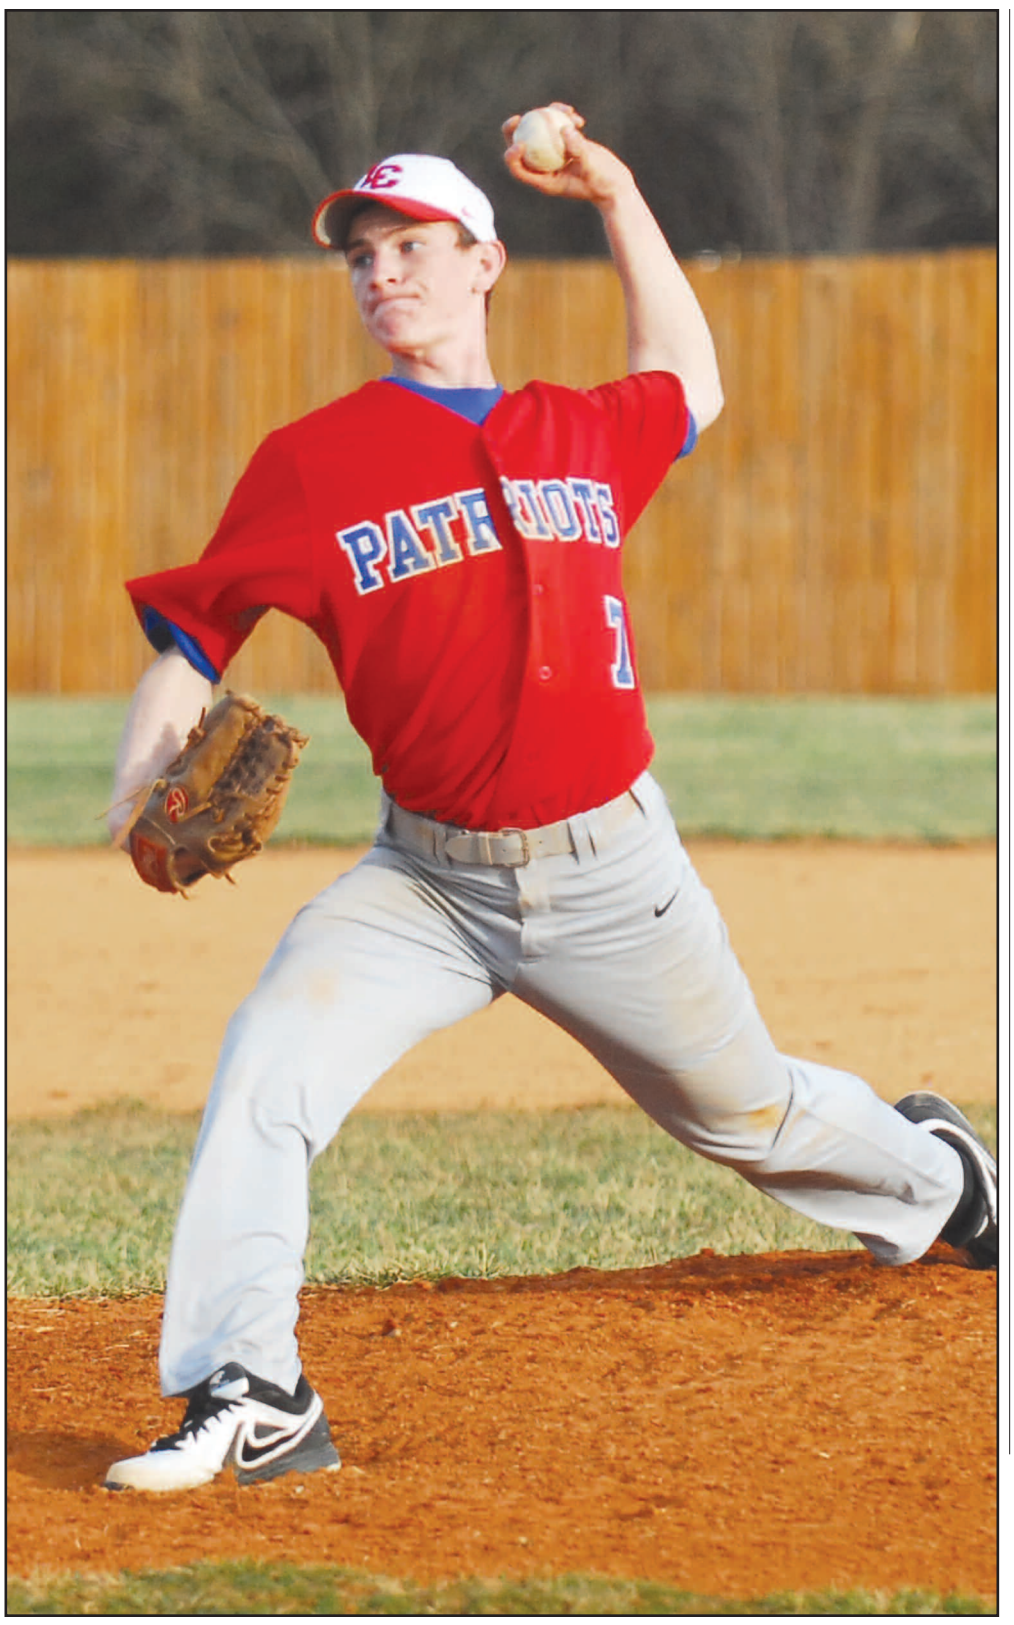

The Lincoln County baseball team finally snapped its slow start to the season, picking up its first win at Corbin last Monday.

It was a tightly-contested game, but timely hits and a solid pitching performance lifted Lincoln over the host Redhounds 3-2.

Josh Wilson got the complete-game win, giving up two earned runs on six hits with two walks and nine strikeouts.

Austin Smith, Boone Baird, Logan Estes and Wilson had one hit apiece in the win, with Estes tagging a double. Wilson, Smith and Baird all got RBIs and Smith also had a stolen base.

The Lincoln baseball team has a busy week ahead, getting started on the diamond today as the Bat Pats host Washington County. Game time is 5:30. Lincoln will then travel to Mt. Vernon on Friday to play Rockcastle County, also at 5:30. On Saturday, the Bat Pats will play a doubleheader at home, facing McCreary Central at 11 a.m. and Harlan County at 3 p.m. Then Lincoln goes back on the road Monday, playing at Southwestern at 5:30.

into the sixth inning, but McCreary (4-2) cut into that lead in the top of the sixth by scoring two runs. Haley Jones sparked the Lady Raiders with a two-run home run with two outs to make it a 4-2 ballgame. But Lincoln's McKenzie Hensley got Cyndol Kiser to fly out to end the inning.

McCreary got no closer, with Lincoln answering with three runs in the bottom of the inning to extend its lead. Brown connected for a two-run single and Marcum had an RBI-double.

Hensley got the complete-game win for Lincoln, giving up two runs off seven hits, with no walks and one strikeout.

Kaylee Cotton absorbed the loss for McCreary, allowing seven runs in six innings with two walks and six strikeouts.

Brown, Taylor, Abby Sparkman, Marcum and Sowders all had two hits, and Marcum and Alyssa Meece doubled.

Don't get caught on the sidelines of your favorite sport

By James A. Turpin, M.D.

Are you one of those people who is not content to just cheer for your favorite sports team and you want to see if you can run faster or jump higher, too? While professional and college athletes make their skills look easy on television, you weekend warriors out there shouldn't assume that you can achieve the same level of coordination and strength.

Two kinds of injuries that are common among weekend warriors are sprains and strains. A sprain affects joints and occurs when a ligament tissue is stretched or torn at the joint. A strain occurs when a muscle tendon is stretched or torn.

Symptoms of a sprain include pain, swelling, tenderness and bruising while symptoms of a strain include sharp pain following by stiffness, tenderness and, in some cases, swelling.

If you do experience a sports injury, make sure you give it the attention it deserves. Not all injuries require a visit to the emergency room, but if you don't have your injury treated properly and allow it to heal fully, you may experience more damage and pain from even the slightest exertion. The general first-aid treatment for sprains and strains is the RICE regimen:

•Rest the injured area.

•Ice the injured area for 20 minutes of every hour for the first 24 hours, using a cold compress.

•Compress the injured area to protect and support the injury.

•Elevate the injured area above the heart to reduce swelling.

If you are playing a sport, you can do a lot to prevent an injury with a 10-minute warm-up routine, which will help prepare your body to deal with physical stress. Cooling down after your sports activity with five to 10 minutes of gentle exercise is also a good idea.

Dr. James A. Turpin is medical director of Ephraim McDowell Fort Logan Hospital's Emergency Department.

Ford Motor Co., Stuart Powell test-drive partnership to benefit Lady Pat basketball is Saturday

Ford Motor Company's Drive 4 UR School program is designed to help raise much needed funding for local high school groups. These test-drive fundraisers at Stuart Powell Ford-Lincoln-Mazda have raised $60,000 locally.

On Saturday, April 12, Drive 4 UR School will be held on behalf of the Lincoln County High Girls Basketball program.

For every person who takes the wheel and test drives a new Ford vehicle at Stuart Powell on this date only, Stuart Powell and Ford Motor will donate $20 to the basketball program.

"We know funding for school programs is hard to come by, and we want to do our part to help make sure these opportunities for students remain available," said Patti Powell, Vice-President at Stuart Powell Ford-Lincoln-Mazda. "We're excited to raise money for the Lincoln County High School Girls Basketball program."

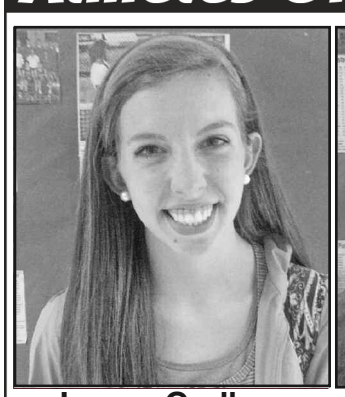

The event will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Stuart Powell dealership at 225 South Danville By-Pass.

LCHS Girls Basketball program volunteers will be on site to register and ride with test-drivers.

Participants must be 18 years of age or older and have a valid driver's license. There is a limit of one test-drive per household.

Linville, Despain, Howard win in Saturday's season opener at Ponderosa Speedway

JUNCTION CITY – Ponderosa Speedway kicked off its 42nd season of racing Saturday and feature event winners for the evening included Dustin Linville of Lancaster in Late Models, Elliott Despain of Campbellsville in Modifieds, and Jeremy Howard of Berea in Sportsman.

Linville jumped out to the race lead in the 25-lap Late Model main event, pulled away to a healthy advantage by lap 6, and had all but the second- through fifth-place runners a lap down by lap 10. But disaster would strike for Linville on lap 16 when he contacted a slower car in turn three and looped his machine. Linville restarted as the last car on the lead lap in fifth (Delaware double-file restart), with Gary Yeager now at the point. Linville jumped beneath the front two rows entering turn one and went three-wide for the race lead, regaining the top position in turn three. Linville never trailed again, driving away to pick up the win in his #D8 car. Yeager finished second, Chris Johnson ran third, Glen Hounshell Jr. was fourth and Dion Benningfield was fifth.

In the 20-lap Modified main event, J.T. Ayers took the early race lead, followed by Elliott Despain, Michael England and Ryan Thomas. Ayers built a comfortable lead only to get involved in an accident with a slower car on lap 7, which put him at the rear of the field on the restart. Despain took the race lead at that point and he and England settled into a battle for the lead that had the pair side-by-side as they took the two-lap remaining signal. However, the caution would wave for a spin by Steven Eversole, setting up a two-lap shootout to complete the race. Despain would hold by a car length to take the victory in his #75e mount. England had to settle for second and Ryan Thomas finished third. Ayers motored back through the field to finish fourth and Rocky Wilson, who started 12th, came in fifth.

Howard earned the $400 payout in the 20-lap Sportsman main event, leading the whole way. He took the lead at the start of the event and would only be slowed by lapped traffic and a late-race caution with three laps remaining to tighten the field up. Howard would again motor away from the field over the final three circuits to take the win aboard his #310 entry. Jim Robinson and Glen Hounshell Jr. battled for second for much of the event, with Robinson winning the battle at the conclusion of the race. Landon Miller and Glen Branham finished fourth and fifth, respectively.

A summary of Saturday's racing follows:

Kentucky Afield Outdoors - White bass runs are finally here

FRANKFORT, Ky. – It is now early April. If you asked most Kentuckians what it feels like weather wise, they would say it is the first of March.

The warm winds finally began to blow from the South earlier this week and brought the white bass upstream with them.

The spawning runs are finally here.

Water temperatures breaking the 50 degree mark combined with rainfall signal to white bass that it is time to move upstream to reproduce. They need a gently rising river along with sun-warmed water to begin migrating from the main lake into the headwaters of reservoirs such as Nolin River Lake, Taylorsville Lake, Cave Run Lake, Herrington Lake and Lake Barkley.

Nolin River Lake has arguably the best white bass population of any Kentucky reservoir. The really good fishing occurs from Lick Run all the way upstream to Wheeler's Mill. Bank anglers have good access to both sides of Nolin River at the Nolin River Voluntary Public Access (VPA) Area via KY 728 and Kesselring Road. Bank anglers also fish at Bacon Creek Boat Ramp and at Broad Ford.

Boaters should not venture upstream of Bacon Creek Boat Ramp as Nolin River Lake reverts back to the pool and riffle habitat of the pre-impoundment river at this point, risking the health of any boat motor's lower unit.

Local anglers are catching white bass around the KY 248 Bridge in the headwaters of Taylorsville Lake in Anderson County. White bass run as far up the Salt River as Glensboro in spring.

The headwaters of Herrington Lake will be churning with white bass with the warming weather. This historic run spawned lure inventions and a regional reputation for incredible fishing. The legendary white bass fishery in Herrington went through a fallow period in the 1990s and early 2000s, but is now producing good numbers of white bass from 12 to 14 inches long.

The good fishing starts near Bryant's Camp Boat Ramp and upstream into Rankin Bottoms, near the KY 52 Bridge between Lancaster and Danville. Bank anglers may access Rankin Bottoms at the Dix River VPA site at the end of Rankin Road off KY 52 near the bridge. This site grants over a mile of bank fishing for white bass.

With water temperatures just reaching the low 50s, white bass are moving into the upper reaches of Lake Barkley. They are also hitting in the Cumberland River just below Lake Barkley.

When the flows modulate slightly after the recent rains, the white bass will be active below locks and dams on the Green and Kentucky rivers.

White bass fishing inspires such ardor in anglers because these fish strike practically anything that comes near them during their spawning runs. No other fishing compares to it when white bass are really on and biting. Bank anglers can enjoy fishing just as good as those fishing from boats.

The white bass are here, signaling this dreadful winter is finally gone for good. Get out in the next couple of weeks for the most exciting fishing found.

FARM FACTS

By Dan Grigson
Lincoln County Extension Office

Rotational grazing - better production and lower costs

Improved grazing management systems are excellent ways for farmers to increase their livestock incomes. The cheapest feed on any livestock farm is the feed that the animals harvest for themselves. A conservative estimate is that the nutrients harvested by grazing cost about half as much or less as those harvested and fed as stored hay. In the last 10 years, the availability and variety of fencing materials and watering equipment has improved which makes the development of improved grazing systems possible for many farmers. Rotational grazing and even intensive grazing are now very easy and as always very profitable. To clarify when I'm talking rotational grazing that is where we leave cattle on a field for seven to 10 days and then rotate to a new field. Intensive grazing is where you rotate every one to three days. I believe everyone should at least do the rotational grazing.

However, before a farmer makes an investment in a grazing system, it is important to know why improved grazing systems will increase revenue. First, grazing has an impact on utilization. With continuous grazing, about 50 percent or less utilization can be achieved. This means the animals eat about half of what is there and waste the other half of the pasture. With better grazing systems that number can move up over 80 percent pretty easily.

Secondly, improved grazing systems will affect the quality of pastures. There is a better chance of using the forage when it is at or near its peak nutritive value with improved grazing systems. That means more pounds of beef, goats, or sheep produced and more pounds of milk per cow produced. Rotational grazing improves pasture quality and that results in better performance by the livestock which means more income for you.

Another point is fertility. Grazing animals will return most of the phosphorus and potassium in the forage back to pasture. However, unless the distribution is uniform, some redistribution of nutrients has to occur. That's why for any pasture system we recommend using a drag to spread the manure piles. Soil testing should be done to determine phosphorous and potassium levels of pastures in the grazing systems. The implementation of a good rotational system will usually reduce the amount of fertilizer needed compared to making hay as the cattle are returning a lot of fertilizer back to the field through the manure. A good rotational grazing system will generally cut down your fertilizer bill which means more income for you.

And last is the better forage species factor. There is a better environment for highly productive, management-responsive species such as alfalfa in these grazing systems. That of course leads to more production per acre and even cheaper feed costs.

So consider improving your grazing management now as this is the best way to cut feed costs and increase production. A little time putting up some electric fence can really give you a lot more feed for your cattle. Any extra pasture can be cut for hay and everybody needs more hay or can sell some hay for more income.

Rotational grazing doesn't take a lot of money and labor to do. We are talking about using electric fence to divide pastures. We are suggesting splitting your fields to where you have a total of five pastures to rotate through; with five pastures you usually only have to move the cattle once a week. This is easy for you and gives the pastures enough rest to allow them to really produce top yields of quality feed.

Take at look at your pastures and study ways to rotationally graze your fields. If you need for me to look at your pastures with you and give you ideas on how to split and rotate fields, then give me a call. I'll be glad to make an appointment with you to visit your farm and give you a rotational grazing layout and ideas.

Specialty crop producers urged to seek federal funding

Agriculture Commissioner James Comer encourages eligible Kentucky entities to apply for funding from the Specialty Crop Block Grant Program.

"This sector of Kentucky agriculture has enormous potential for growth," Commissioner Comer said. "This funding will help us to realize that potential. I urge all eligible businesses and organizations to send us your proposals for growing your operations and the industry as a whole."

The U.S. Department of Agriculture defines "specialty crops" as fruits, vegetables, tree nuts, dried fruits, and horticulture and nursery crops. The Kentucky Department of Agriculture administers the U.S. Department of Agriculture grant in Kentucky.

Eligible commodity groups, agriculture organizations, colleges and universities, producers, municipalities, state agencies, and nonprofit organizations may apply for funding under the Specialty Crop Block Grant Program. Projects "must aim to enhance the production and competitiveness of Kentucky specialty crops," according to the grant application. Applicants must live in Kentucky or have their business or educational affiliation in the Commonwealth.

A selection committee will review the applications and select the projects that have the greatest impact on Kentucky's specialty crop industry. Successful applicants may be awarded up to $50,000. Matching funds are encouraged but not required.

Applications must be submitted by close of business June 2. Applications sent by mail must be postmarked no later than May 31. Grant awards will be announced this fall.

For more information, including a downloadable application and application requirements, go to the Specialty Crop Block Grant page on the Kentucky Department of Agriculture's website at www.kyagr.com/marketing/crop-block-grant.html or contact KDA marketing specialist Joshua Lindau at (502) 564-4983 or joshua.lindau@ky.gov.

USDA sets date for soybean Request for Referendum

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced that it will offer soybean producers the opportunity to request a referendum on the Soybean Promotion and Research Order (Order), as authorized under the Soybean Promotion, Research, and Consumer Information Act (Act).

The Act requires the Secretary of Agriculture to conduct a Request for Referendum every five years after the initial referendum, which was conducted in 1994. The last Request for Referendum was conducted in 2009. Soybean producers who are interested in having a referendum to determine whether to continue the Soybean Checkoff Program are invited to participate.

The Request for Referendum will be conducted at USDA's county Farm Service Agency (FSA) offices. To be eligible to participate, producers must certify and provide documentation that shows that they produced soybeans and paid an assessment on the soybeans during the period of Jan. 1, 2012, through Dec. 31, 2013.

Beginning May 5 and continuing through May 30, 2014, producers may obtain a form by mail, fax, or in person from the FSA county offices. Forms may also be obtained via the internet at http://www.ams.usda.gov/AMSv1.0/SoybeaninformationtheSoybeanRequestforReferendum during the same time period. Individual producers and other producer entities may request a referendum at the county FSA office where their administrative farm records are maintained. For the producer not participating in FSA programs, the opportunity to request a referendum will be provided at the county FSA office where the producer owns or rents land. Completed forms and supporting documentation must be returned to the appropriate county FSA office by fax or in person no later than close of business May 30, 2014; or if returned by mail, must be postmarked by midnight May 30, 2014, and received in the county FSA office by close of business on June 5, 2014.

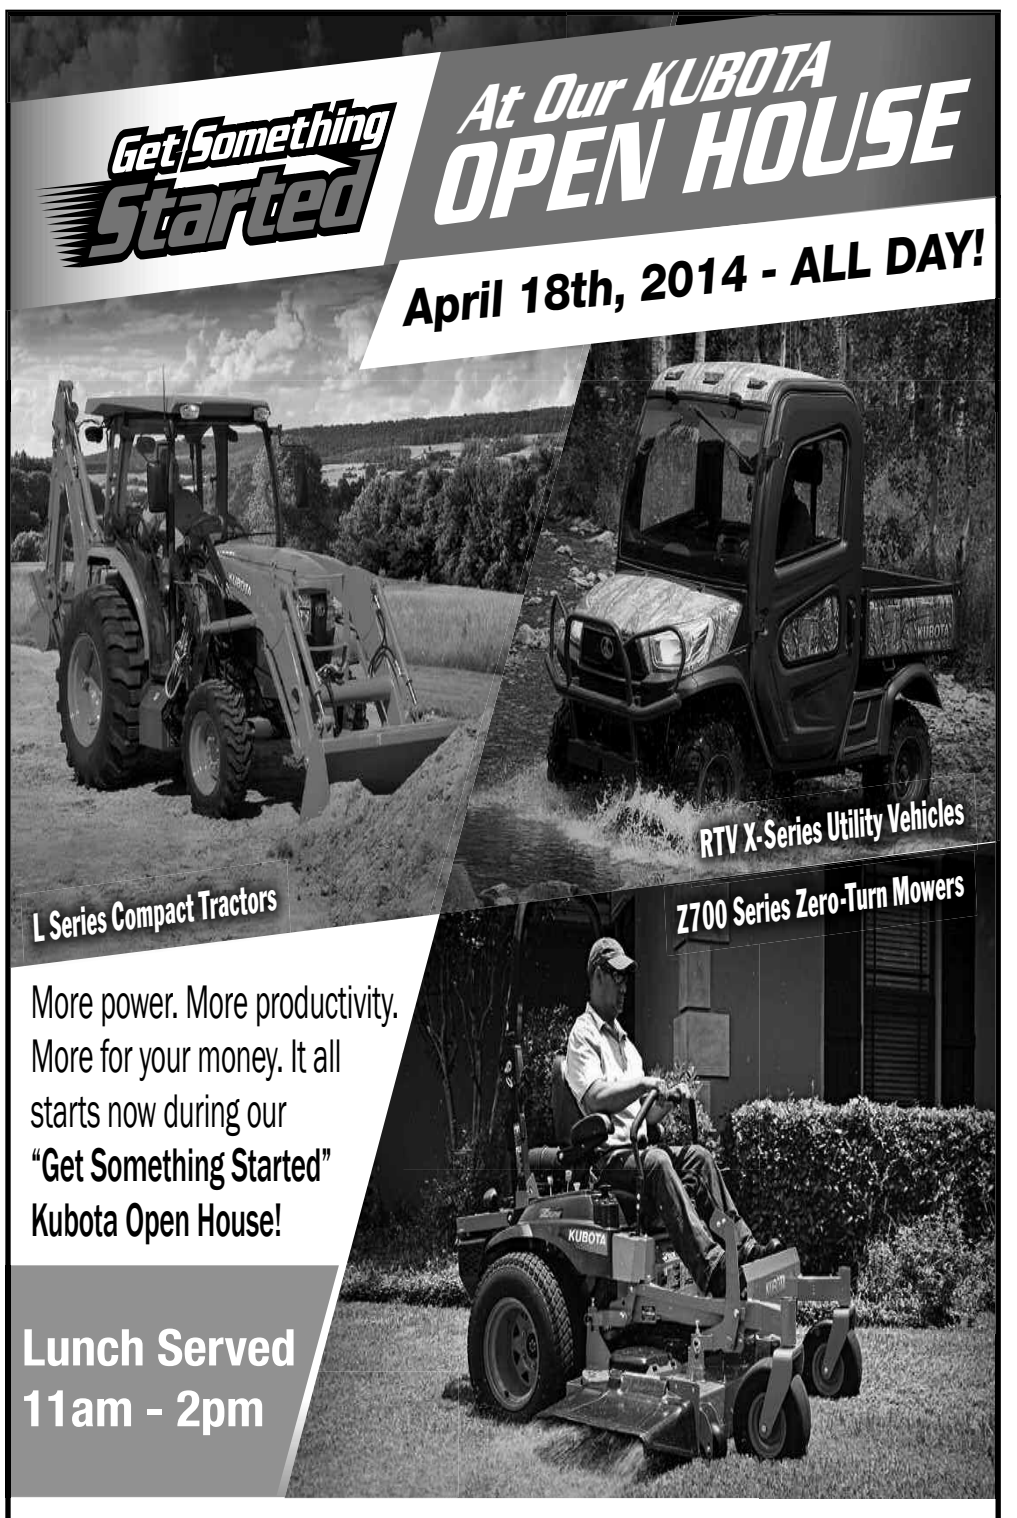

USDA will conduct a referendum if at least 10 percent of the nation's 569,998 soybean producers support a referendum. Not more than one-fifth of the producers who support having a referendum can be from any one State.

The Soybean Checkoff Program is administered by a 70-member producer board and is designed to expand uses of soybeans and soybean products in domestic and foreign markets. The national Soybean Checkoff Program is financed by a mandatory assessment of one-half of one percent of the net market price.

Notice of the Request for Referendum was published in the March 4, 2014, Federal Register. For more information, contact James Brow, Research and Promotions Branch; Livestock, Poultry and Seed Program, AMS, USDA; STOP 0251 Room 2610S; 1400 Independence Avenue, SW; Washington, D.C. 202500251; tel. (202) 7200633.

For more information, contact the Stanford FSA Service Center, located at 102 Metker Trail, Stanford, KY, or by calling (606) 365-2588 or 1888-758-6910.

Campbell to get unique look at U.S. Naval Academy at seminar

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — The U.S. Naval Academy (USNA) invited a select group of approximately 2,550 young men and women from around the nation and abroad to attend the Naval Academy Summer Seminar Program this year, and Lincoln County's own MaKayla Ann Campbell was among those chosen to participate.

Campbell, a senior at Lincoln County High School, was among the rising high school seniors selected to attend the 2014 USNA program, a fast-paced leadership summer seminar developed to help educate, motivate and prepare students who are considering applying for admission to the USNA.

Summer Seminar teaches prospective applicants about life at the Naval Academy, where academics, athletics and professional training are key elements in developing our nation's leaders. Each student will attend a six-day session and experience a glimpse of USNA life. Campbell and all the seminar students will have the opportunity to live in Bancroft Hall, eat in King Hall along with participating in academic and leadership workshops. They will also participate in daily physical training involving group runs and conditioning exercises. They will experience firsthand what the Naval Academy has to offer through its exceptional academic, athletic, extracurricular activities and leadership training programs.

Summer Seminar has an academic focus, with each student attending eight 90-minute workshops, covering subjects from information technology, naval architecture and mechanical engineering, to oceanography, mathematics, history and meteorology. Students will also participate in seamanship and navigation classes and will take a cruise aboard a Navy Yard Patrol Craft to apply what they will learn in class. Naval Academy Midshipmen lead Summer Seminar with oversight by active-duty Navy and Marine Corps officers.

Founded in 1845, the USNA is a prestigious four-year college that prepares midshipmen morally, mentally and physically to be professional officers in the naval service. More than 4,400 men and women representing every state in the U.S. and several foreign countries make up the student body, known as the Brigade of Midshipmen. Midshipmen learn from military and civilian instructors and participate in intercollegiate varsity sports and extracurricular activities. All Midshipmen are on full scholarship and have a choice of 23 different majors. Additionally, they study small arms, drill, seamanship and navigation, tactics, naval engineering and weapons, leadership, ethics and military law as part of their education. Upon graduation, midshipmen earn a Bachelor of Science degree and go on to serve at least five years of exciting and rewarding service as commissioned officers in the U.S. Navy or U.S. Marine Corps.

For more information about the Naval Academy, please visit: www.usna.edu or the USNA Admissions Facebook page.

Campbell is the daughter of David and Jennifer Campbell of Stanford and the granddaughter of David and Teresa Campbell, also of Stanford, and Herbert and Lela Noe of Beattyville.

Hwy. #1194 and Moores School Road, and being located near the City of Stanford, Lincoln County, Kentucky, said pin being the Southeast corner of Sara Hubbard an Mary Robinson property (D.B. 209, p. 229) and being the Southwest corner of Tract 1 as created this same day; thence running with right of way of Moores School Road and across the front of Tract 1, N 70 deg. 40' 54" E 462.30 feet to an iron pin set, being the Southeast corner of Tract 1 as created this same day and being the Southwest corner of Tract 2 as being described and being the point of beginning for the description of Tract 2; thence continuing with right of way Moores School Road N 70 deg 40' 54" E 150.16 feet to an iron pin set, being te(sic) Southwest corner of Tract 3 as created this same day and being the Southeast corner of Tract 2 as being described; thence leaving right of way and running with line of Tract 3 N 21 deg. 57' 48" W 303.26 feet to an iron pin set in the line of Tract 4 as created this same day, being the Northwest corner of Tract 3 and the Northeast corner of Tract 2 as being described; thence leaving line of Tract 3 and running with line of Tract 4 S 66 deg. 42' 43" W 150.04 feet to an iron pin set in line of Tract 1 and being the north west corner of Tract 2 as being described; thence leaving line of Tract 4 and running with line of tract 1 S 21 deg 57' 48" E 292.87 feet to the point of beginning and containing 1.026 acres by survey. Refer to plat of Jackie Taylor property division as recorded in Plat Slide A-_____, Lincoln County Court Clerk's Office. This description prepared from a physical survey conducted by Austin & Gooch Engineering, Douglas G. Gooch, KY R.L.S. #3118 dated the 10th day of April 1997.

The manufactured home located on the above-described property has been converted to real estate as shown by the Affidavit of Conversion to Real Estate of record in Deed Book 330, Page 188, Lincoln County Court Clerk's Office.

This being the same property acquired by James Mike Wash, a married person, by deed from James Mike Wash and Rita Wash, his wife, dated January 31, 2013, of record in Deed Book 407, Page 742, Lincoln County Court Clerk's Office. See also deed dated July 18, 2002, of record in Deed Book 326, Page 466, Lincoln County Court Clerk's Office.

The above described real property will be sold and conveyed subject to such valid and existing easements, restrictions, reservations, conditions, covenants and limitations apparent or of record in the chain of title.

The sale of the above real property will be made on a credit of thirty (30) days time with the privilege extended to the purchaser of paying the entire purchase price, or any part in excess of ten percent (10%) thereof, in cash at the time of the sale. If the sale be made on credit, the purchaser shall pay to the Master Commissioner immediately at the time of the sale ten percent (10%) of the total sale price and execute bond for the balance due in thirty (30) days, bearing interest at the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum from the date of sale until paid, with a good and sufficient surety thereon; and the bond shall be secured by a lien upon said property sold which shall have the full force and effect of a judgment. The purchaser may pay the purchase price money due on the bond with accrued interest at any time before maturity.

The real property described herein is to be sold at the time and place stated; and shall be sold free and clear of all liens, indebtedness, interests and claims of the parties hereto, subject to any and all applicable statutory rights of redemption.

All delinquent ad valorem taxes, if any, interest and penalties will be paid out of the proceeds of said sale. The purchaser will be responsible for payment of the 2014 ad valorem taxes.

Possession of the real property will be given to the purchaser with the delivery of the deed of conveyance thereto. The purchaser will be responsible for all risks of loss to the premises upon acceptance of their bid at the time of sale.

The purpose of this sale is to satisfy the judgment of the Lincoln Circuit Court in the above-styled action in favor of Plaintiff in the sum of $53,688.74 plus interest, advances for the protection of the property, costs and attorney fees as authorized and provided in said Judgment.

For further information concerning the above sale contact: Hon. Stephanie A. Maguire, Attorney for Plaintiff, Lerner, Sampson & Rothfuss, P.O. Box 5480, Cincinnati, OH 45201-5480, Tel. #513-241-3100.

Skills USA members compete in regional competitions

Skills USA competitions have kicked off again for 2014.

Skills USA members, Josh Bowen, Ben Hull, Sarah Rigdon, Luke Shofner, Dustin Cordier, Coleby Elliott and Brandon Edwards, participated in regional competitions on Friday, March 7 at Lexington's Kentucky Community and Technical College System campus (KCTCS).

Josh Bowen competed in PC Maintenance and achieved first place. Ben Hull and Sarah Rigdon competed in Mechatronics and achieved second place. Luke Shofner, Dustin Cordier and Coleby Elliott the Automated Manufacturing team of three, working with Computerized Aided Drafting, Computerized Automated Manufacturing and Computerized Numerical Control, (CAD, CAM, CNC) achieved second and Brandon Edwards competed in PC Maintenance and achieved second place.

Josh Bowen said that his favorite part of regional competitions was being recognized for winning his competition. Ben Hull and Sarah Rigdon, were asked what their expectations of state were, they said simply "that they wanted to do their best and do well under pressure." The automated team of Luke Shofner, Dustin Cordier and Coleby Elliott said they learned they needed to stay calm and not over think the task at hand. Brandon Edwards said his favorite part of competitions was the competitive atmosphere as a whole.

All of these winning students are going to state competitions on Wednesday, April 16 through Friday, April 20.

Compare award letters to find best college

By now, most high school seniors should have completed the college application process and will begin receiving financial aid award letters. Seniors and their parents should compare those letters to find the one that offers the best financial aid package, the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) advises.

The letter will usually show the total cost of attendance — what it costs to go to that school for one school year, including tuition, fees, room, meals, books, supplies, transportation and personal expenses.

It may also show how much the student's family is expected to pay toward those costs, the expected family contribution (EFC). The EFC is subtracted from the total cost of attendance to get a student's financial need. The letter will then list various sources of financial aid offered to pay for the costs not covered by the EFC. Students can accept or reject any or all of those proposed sources.

One consideration is how much of the aid being offered is in federal student loans, which will have to be paid back after a student finishes school. If the package includes federal loans and isn't enough to pay all expenses, students may be looking at a private education loan. Comparison shopping is a must in that case.

KHEAA is the state agency that administers Kentucky's student financial aid programs, including the Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES).

vs. — NOTICE OF SALE

ANTHONY W. JONES ET AL — DEFENDANTS

FRIDAY, APRIL 25, 2014, AT 10:00 A.M.
FRONT DOOR, LINCOLN COUNTY COURTHOUSE

Pursuant to a Judgment and Order of Sale of the Lincoln Circuit Court entered July 9, 2010, in the above-styled civil action, the undersigned Master Commissioner will sell the following real property located at 1306 Cross Road, Eubank, Lincoln County, Kentucky, at the front door, Lincoln County Courthouse, on Friday, April 25, 2014, at the hour of 10:00 a.m., or as soon thereafter as said property can be sold, said property being more particularly described as follows:

Being Tract #6, consisting of 0.52 acres, more or less of the Delma Jean Estes and Sarah Ruth Evans property, as shown on a plat of record in Plat Slide B-147, Lincoln County Court Clerk's Office, to which reference is hereby made for a more particular description.

The manufactured home located on the above-described property has been converted to real estate as shown by the Affidavit of Conversion to Real Estate of record in Miscellaneous Book 1, Page 401, Lincoln County Court Clerk's Office.

This being the same property acquired by Anthony W. Jones and Susan A. Jones, his wife, by deed from Judith Carroll, a single person, dated June 27, 2006, of record in Deed Book 364, Page 341, Lincoln County Court Clerk's Office.

The above described real property will be sold and conveyed subject to such valid and existing easements, restrictions, reservations, conditions, covenants and limitations apparent or of record in the chain of title.

The sale of the above real property will be made on a credit of thirty (30) days time with the privilege extended to the purchaser of paying the entire purchase price, or any part in excess of ten percent (10%) thereof, in cash at the time of the sale. If the sale be made on credit, the purchaser shall pay to the Master Commissioner immediately at the time of the sale ten percent (10%) of the total sale price and execute bond for the balance due in thirty (30) days, bearing interest at the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum from the date of sale until paid, with a good and sufficient surety thereon; and the bond shall be secured by a lien upon said property sold which shall have the full force and effect of a judgment. The purchaser may pay the purchase price money due on the bond with accrued interest at any time before maturity.

The real property described herein is to be sold at the time and place stated; and shall be sold free and clear of all liens, indebtedness, interests and claims of the parties hereto, subject to any and all applicable statutory rights of redemption.

All delinquent ad valorem taxes, if any, interest and penalties will be paid out of the proceeds of said sale. The purchaser will be responsible for payment of the 2014 ad valorem taxes.

Possession of the real property will be given to the purchaser with the delivery of the deed of conveyance thereto. The purchaser will be responsible for all risks of loss to the premises upon acceptance of their bid at the time of sale.

The purpose of this sale is to satisfy the judgment of the Lincoln Circuit Court in the above-styled action in favor of Plaintiff in the sum of $66,259.40 plus interest, advances for the protection of the property, costs and attorney fees as authorized and provided in said Judgment.

For further information concerning the above sale contact: Hon. Stephanie A. Maguire, Attorney for Plaintiff, Lerner, Sampson & Rothfuss, P.O. Box 5480, Cincinnati, OH 45201-5480, Tel. #513-241-3100.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

Honorable Mayor and Members of the City Council
City of Hustonville, Kentucky

Report on the Financial Statements

I have audited the accompanying financial statements of the governmental activities, the business-type activities, and each major fund of the City of Hustonville, Kentucky as of and for the year ended June 30, 2013, and the related notes to the financial statements, which collectively comprise the City's basic financial statements as listed in the table of contents.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America; this includes the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

My responsibility is to express opinions on these financial statements based on my audit. I conducted my audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards required that I plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement.
An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion of the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, I express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.
I believe that the audit evidence I have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for my audit opinions.

Opinions

In my opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the respective financial position of the governmental activities, the business-type activities, each major fund, and the respective budgetary comparison for the general fund of the City of Hustonville, Kentucky, as of June 30, 2013, and the respective changes in financial position, and, where applicable, cash flows thereof, for the year then ended in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Other Matters

Required Supplementary Information
Management has omitted the Management's Discussion and Analysis that accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires to be presented to supplement the basic financial statements. Such missing information, although not a part of the basic financial statements, is required by the Governmental Accounting Standards Board who considers it to be an essential part of financial reporting for placing the basic financial statements in an appropriate operational, economic, or historical context. My opinion on the basic financial statements is not affected by this missing information.

Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, I have also issued my report dated January 31, 2014, on my consideration of the City of Hustonville, Kentucky's internal control over financial reporting and on my tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts and grants agreements and other matters. The purpose of that report is to describe the scope of my testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards, in considering the City of Hustonville, Kentucky's internal control over financial reporting and compliance.

Children in Ms. Dana and Ms. Gina's preschool class at Fort Logan perform various circus feats for their famlies.

Preschool classes enjoy circus activities

By Lea Wooldridge
Early Learning Mentor/Coach

Children need many opportunities to practice their large-motor skills, e.g. pulling, climbing, running, kicking, throwing and jumping. Brain research points to the importance of early, positive movement experience to link children's emotional development and their school performance. The ability to be physically active influences social well-being and mental health. Regular physical activity helps children maintain healthy bones, muscles joints, and to control their weight. Motor development is not automatic. If children are to develop physical competence, they need a variety of equipment and materials.

The students in Ms. Dana and Ms. Gina's class at Fort Logan preschool demonstrated their large muscle skills, balance and coordination as they performed various circus feats for their audience made up of Early Head Start and preschool students and members of their families.

At the conclusion of the Big Top performance, parents were invited to join their children for opportunities to try their own skills on the balance beam and other challenging maneuvers.
